Revolving Credit Arrangements Discussed by Attorney General

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The long-simmering dispute about the validity of charges under the "revolving credit" arrangements of many Wisconsin merchants will probably be settled in a test case in the courts, but the legislature also has the opportunity to resolve it in a pending bill. Atty. Gen. Bronson C. LaFollette told leaders of the Legislature Tuesday.

A News Analysis

His statement came when he was asked to comment in a legislative finance committee hearing on his department budget, on the claim of the state department of banking that Wisconsin consumers are now being mulcted of hundreds of thousands of dollars in excessive interest charges on their department store accounts.

The latter complaint came earlier, in testimony before the committee, by William Nuesse, state commissioner of banking, who has been pressing for a resolution of the controversy that has continued for years. The banking department's consumer credit officials are convinced that the common rate of 1.5 per cent per month on such department store accounts is improper under Wisconsin law.

18 Per Cent
The division insists that under the Wisconsin law which limits interest to 1 per cent a month, or 12 per cent a year, the department store charges aggregating 18 per cent yearly are usurious and therefore prohibited.

But LaFollette said the case is not entirely clear. Normally the laws governing "interest" relate to the lending of money or the forbearance of a debt, he noted. There are also questions about the definition of penalties, and service charges as "interest," he explained, and in order to set up a test case, a merchant who is imposing such charges must be willing to make a contest in court.

The banking department has found that merchants are unwilling to cooperate to provide such a test and prefer to waive their charges, instead, when they are challenged, the attorney general continued. He thereupon corroborated what Nuesse had reported earlier.

Divided Opinion
LaFollette also said that the extensive studies of the problem in his office had concluded that expert opinion in the country is fairly evenly divided on the propriety of revolving credit charges and the applicability of usury laws.

Moreover, there appears to be no ordinary charges, he said, pointing to the experience of the state of Missouri, where the courts outlawed such interest 23 at the 9th Infantry Division's collections, and the legislature with the consent of the people in a referendum promptly amended the constitution to reinstate the system.

LaFollette told the legislative committee that he has written a proposed "truth in lending" act which has been presented to the Legislature in the form of a bill. While its principal object is to let the debtor know precisely what his interest and other charges are in time payment contracts, it will also set out clearly the regulation of the revolving credit plans, he said.

Lodge Refutes Plans to Resign

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge denied today that he intends to resign his Saigon post and said he has "no definite plans or firm decisions whatsoever."

Lodge told a reporter on his return from a conference in the Philippines: "These reports about my resignation are reports that come up every so often. The last time was last December."

"I repeat now what I said in December. I serve at the pleasure of the President. Obviously, all tours of duty must come to an end sometime."

"I have no definite plans or firm decisions whatsoever."

Impressions of a City

Elegance, Size, Even Heat Make Dallas Great

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

DALLAS, Tex. — Dallas sprawls. Even from the air the city stretches, flowing across the abundant Texas flat country, taking off in leisurely directions as the mood moves. From the ground, the city seems boundless, with expressways, freeways and new toll road construction making the "getting around" easier.

There are 850,000 people in metropolitan Dallas. Taking in the 20-mile distant Fort Worth area there are 2,500,000. The South's most populated area between the Atlantic and Pacific, except for Los Angeles.

This week, from 27 states and Canada, fashion editors are having a look at what makes fashion the fourth largest industry in Texas and why Dallas rates third in the nation's fashion markets.

Wisconsin coats were heavy in Dallas last week, the 30 degrees at home being topped by 85 here. Great for sunning, and bringing home the start of a summer tan! Even at 85, people weren't using their swimming pools. Wisconsinites who take to Winnebago and Michigan at the first 70-degree mark are far more courageous than southerners, who think May 1 is the proper time to begin swimming, regardless of temperature. Sunday, however, the record heat gave way to more reasonable March temperatures, and it was back to the 40s.

No one who visits Dallas wants to get away without a look at Nieman-Marcus. Nor could I. And of course, the elegance of the store is not the kind that ever asserts itself. It is so understated that the store has no sign declaring its presence. Now if that's not self-assurance, what is?

What is Nieman - Marcus that it sets the pace for sheer luxury all across the nation? It's carpeting, for one thing. And open spaces. It's tile on the floor and marble touches. It is not "his and her" bathtubs. However whimsical it may get during the holiday season, it is clerks who try to outdress their customers in good taste and simplicity. It is quiet and the feeling that one has forever to look and decide, or come back another day.

And, of course, it is lunch in the sixth floor Zodiac Room. Part of the fun of attending

Temperatures Above Zero Mark Tonight

Fox Cities — Partly cloudy tonight with low 10 above zero. High Thursday, 35. Moderate southwest winds. Less than 10 per cent chance of precipitation.

Appleton — Observations for the past 24 hours at 11 a.m. show high, 26; low, minus 5. Barometer 30.21 and steady. Winds from southwest at 5 miles per hour. Relative humidity, 70, dew point, zero. Skies clear.

Sun sets today at 5:50 p.m., rises at 6:18 a.m. Thursday. Moon rises tomorrow at 6:07 a.m. The planet, Mars, today begins a slow westward movement among the stars in its background that will continue until late in May.

litical district is in Harlem, said he would support Powell. Sutton, a Democrat like most Harlem leaders, said in a statement:

"While Mr. Meredith has certainly earned his credentials as a civil rights hero, I think the Republicans will find many in the Harlem community feel Mr. Meredith is an outsider, selected by the Republicans and outsiders to be imposed on the Harlem community."

'Not Indigenous'
The Rev. Roy Nichols, pastor of the Salem Methodist church, said Meredith "is unprepared and not indigenous to the Harlem community."

"The man has not even waited to see whether or not Mr. Powell is going to retain his seat by court order," added the Rev. Mr. Nichols. "It seems to me he is jumping the gun before the race starts. I don't think Meredith will get a second look from Harlem, not even a first look."

Waives Preliminary Hearing

Mental Exams Ordered for McBrair

WAUTOMA — James D. McBrair, 27, accused slayer of four persons early Sunday morning at a remote Fish Lake cottage, was taken late this morning to Central State Hospital in Waupun for psychiatric examinations.

McBrair appeared at 10:40 a.m. before Waushara County Judge Boyde Clark. The accused slayer's attorney, Jon Wilcox, requested that a preliminary hearing be waived and that his client be bound over to Circuit Court.

Judge Clark and Dist. Atty. Howard Dutcher agreed and the judge stepped down from the bench. Then, Circuit Judge

R. H. Gollmer, Baraboo, took the bench and ordered that McBrair be sent to Central State Hospital.

"There is a basis here that a mental illness could exist," Judge Gollmer said, "and he should be examined."

Wilcox retained the right to request a preliminary hearing at a later date. Judge Gollmer granted Wilcox's request and said that the case can be returned to county court for a preliminary hearing at any time.

No pleas were entered by McBrair's attorney and no bail was set by the judge. All proceedings in the case will be stayed until McBrair returns from Central State Hospital. His confinement there is not to exceed 60 days.

Throughout the hearing, which was the official arraignment, McBrair was flanked by Wilcox and Sheriff Virgil Batterman. The suspect sat slumped with his head bowed and his left hand held over his face.

McBrair was motionless as he heard Dutcher read the official complaint charging him with four counts of first degree murder in the shooting deaths of his estranged wife,

Vote Light, Tight for 2 Victors

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Chief Justice George R. Currie and Milwaukee Circuit Judge Robert W. Hansen won the two places on the April 4 Supreme Court ballot Tuesday, running a virtual dead heat in one of the lightest and tightest high court primaries in a decade.

Only some 1,100 votes separated them with all but six of the state's 3,290 precincts reporting.

Left far behind was Harry Halloway, a Milwaukee attorney whose candidacy made the primary necessary to narrow the field for next month's non-partisan judicial election for a

Valley Results

Results in the four-county Valley area of Tuesday's Supreme Court primary:

	Currie	Hansen	Halloway
Ozaukee	2,476	1,360	565
Winnebago	7,614	914	306
Waukegan	503	404	70
Calumet	339	203	91

full 10-year term on the high court. The post carries a $24,000 annual salary, although Currie, as chief justice, draws $25,000.

The vote, in 3,224 precincts, was:

Currie	91,691
Hansen	90,539
Halloway	26,119

The victory of the two judges was a foregone conclusion, but the hairbreadth margin between them and particularly Hansen's showing of strength outstate might presage difficulties for Currie, who as a sitting judge, and one with a long and distinguished record, would be regarded as the favorite.

Wins in 20 Counties
But Hansen ran ahead of the chief justice in 20 counties, including those as far outside metropolitan influence as Clark, Dodge, Iron, Lincoln, Menominee, Pierce, Polk, Price, Rusk, St. Croix, Sawyer, Taylor, Trempealeau and Vernon.

Hansen also led by a substantial margin in Milwaukee; in neighboring Ozaukee, Wash-

Blair Reportedly Set To Leave Philippines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources say William McCormick Blair Jr., U.S. ambassador to the Philippines, will resign this spring to return to private law practice.

The White House would not confirm persistent reports that Blair will resign his Manila post. Previous reports were that he would remain on the job through the present fiscal year ending June 30.

Mountaineers In Safe Descent

Results Uncertain In Winter Attempt To Climb McKinley

TALKEETNA, Alaska. (AP) — Three mountain climbers who had been objects of a massive search and rescue operation were reported safely descending Mt. McKinley today, but it was anybody's guess whether they got to the top.

"I'd say it's even money that they went on up the South Peak," said veteran bush pilot Don Sheldon. McKinley's South Peak stands 20,320 feet, making it the highest point in North America.

It had never been climbed in the winter before.

The trio of mountaineers, all from Anchorage, were part of an eight-man party which began an assault on the mountain Jan.

First Full Day in Prison

Hoffa to be Given No Special Rights

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — James Hoffa will be just another inmate behind the walls of the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., according to Warden Jacob J. Parker.

Wearing a two-piece blue denim suit and black low-cut shoes, Hoffa started his first full day in this federal penitentiary today. Parker said he had no plans to meet with Hoffa for the first few days and that, like the 1,700 other inmates, Hoffa will work to earn his spending money. He will get no special mail or visiting privileges, said Parker.

Federal marshals brought Hoffa here Tuesday to start an eight-year term for jury tampering. Eventually said Parker, he'll settle into a routine, but for the first month, he'll be going through an indoctrination of sorts.

Denim Uniforms
Parkers said Hoffa's first stop in the supply room, where he turned in his business suit for three two-piece blue denim uniforms, would later be "tailored to meet his needs."

Hoffa's first five to seven mail days in prison, Parker said, are to be spent as a member of an "admission unit," undergoing a physical examination and a series of interviews with the chaplain, education and vocational specialists and a case worker.

During this period he will be given a temporary work assignment, probably some kind of service-type work.

Except for work assignments, members of the admission unit move as a group, even for recreation periods.

"This is an orientation period for both the inmates and the clinic staff," Parker said.

Parker said that after 30 days, Hoffa will get a permanent job and be assigned to permanent quarters. Each inmate at Lewisburg has his own cell.

"I'll See Him"

"We get about 1,000 admissions a year here," Parker said. "I can't have a personal meeting with each man when he arrives. I'll see him (Hoffa) when he comes to the supply room."

Parker said a federal prison rule limits visiting privileges to immediate families of inmates. Visitors for three hours each month. He will be allowed to visit his wife and three children.

When Hoffa arrived Tuesday to be spent as a member of an "admission unit," undergoing a physical examination and a ser-ment papers and admit him.

Negro Leaders Doubt Chances

James Meredith Decides to Run Against Powell in Special Election

NEW YORK (AP) — Negro leaders in Harlem and around the country reacted coolly today to James H. Meredith's plans to run as the Republicans' choice against Democrat Adam Clayton Powell in a special congressional election April 11.

They gave him little chance of winning, and some charged he was being used.

Meredith, in agreeing to oppose Powell Tuesday after being recommended by Republican leaders, said he was aware that in running he might lay himself open to "the fear and the scorn from fellow Negroes." He said that Powell, excluded from the House last week, had lost his influence and the people deserve more than what they're getting.

Meredith's name was suggested by an unidentified Harlem Republican leader last week.

Tuesday he was recommended by members of the Republican Executive Committee from the 18th District. His nomination is expected to be made

Redesigned Ramp Exit Plans
To be Completed by March 15

Special drawings for redesigning the exit of the new Soldiers Square parking ramp for a cashier-type system will be completed by March 15 so bids can be taken then, city officials were told today.

John P. McCartney, Detroit, representing Enco Associates, Inc., wrote that the city council authorized change in the 450-car parking structure was now on the drawing boards. Because the million dollar project will have but one exit — North Oneida Street — it will be to change plans in mid-stream, "year ago."

Appleton police also received a report Monday of the alleged theft of $115 from a cash register at Northside Hardware Store, 1415 N. # Mediators Move Into Union Talks With City Employees

Mayor Seeks Assistance in Averting Employees' Walkout

Mediation of the contract dispute between the City of Appleton and Teamsters Local 563 got underway at city hall today under supervision of the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB).

Mayor George Buckley contacted the WERB Tuesday and asked for assistance in settling disagreements between the union and the council's personnel committee, headed by Ald. John MacDonald (7th).

Arthur Kirby, Milwaukee, and Herman Torosian, Madison, are the mediators sent here to help the parties resolve seven issues and arrive at a 1967 contract.

Local 563 represents employees in the department of public works. Robert Schlieve, secretary - treasurer, is their chief negotiator. MacDonald has been the city's spokesman.

It was disclosed union and city negotiators have met at least 12 times since last fall.

Although not a member of the personnel committee, Buckley sat in on the mediation session this morning in his capacity as the city's chief executive.

During preliminary discussion on what transpired up until the WERB was summoned, Schlieve and MacDonald exchanged caustic comments as they did earlier in the week, leading to the union's claim that the collective bargaining process was breaking down.

Feelings Develop

"I can't account for your feelings because these things develop over long periods of negotiations," Kirby advised city and union spokesmen. "However, there appear to be some hard problems between you so let's concentrate on them."

Key issues center around wages, health - welfare and vacation benefits while the others pertain to contract language.

In recent months, Schlieve has met periodically with the personnel committee, and Personnel Director Jerry Rusch on a separate basis, as suggested by the city's bargaining group. Day and night sessions have resulted.

From a review of past negotiations, it was apparent some matters the union thought were resolved in meetings with Rusch were in effect not acceptable to him or the committee.

MacDonald said the committee will meet Tuesday.

2 Radio Men Qualify in Primary Race

Kaufman, Gerhardt Eliminated in 9th, 11th Wards

Two radio station newsmen seeking seats on the Appleton Common Council piled up impressive vote totals in Tuesday's primary election.

The only aldermanic primaries in the city were conducted in the 9th and 11th Wards where the present officeholders declined to seek re-election.

In the 9th Ward, James Bethke, news director for Station WBXY, outdistanced a field of three with 171 votes.

Eliminated in the primary were John R. Kaufman, 2319 S. Lave St., 9th Ward, and Albert G. Gerhardt, 1221 E. Fremont St., 11th Ward.

85 Vote Margin

Came the April 4 general election, Bethke's opponent will be Edward R. Maloney, 601 E. Coolidge Ave., an electrician, who was runner-up in Tuesday's run-off with 85 votes.

Kaufman, an employee of Schaefer Dairy, ran a weak third with 42 votes.

In the first and second precincts of the 9th Ward where Ald. Robert Ebben will be giving up his council post, Bethke picked up 68 and 103 votes, respectively, compared to 13 and 72 for Maloney.

Frederick G. Kafura, 94 E.therbrook Court, was the No. 2 man behind Hoolihan in the 11th Ward and will be a major contender in next month's finale. Kafura is general superintendent at Thimany Pulp and Paper Co.

Only 11 Votes

Gerhardt, eliminated in the race for the position now held by Ald. Paul Klumner, ran far behind the frontrunners with only 14 votes. He has sought public office unsuccessfully several times.

Hoolihan, who resides at 632 E. Harrison St., is also a member of the Outagamie County Board, a situation which might develop into a campaign issue. Hoolihan has indicated that if elected alderman he would also retain his county office.

Councilmen are elected for two-year terms, receiving $1,200 a year for their part-time duties.

Sewer, Water Plan Curtailed by Funds

Only $120,000 Available for 8 County Program, Planner Says

A reduction in available federal funds will mean changes in a proposed comprehensive area plan for sewer and water systems in eight counties, including Outagamie, served by the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission.

William E. Morris, executive director of the Wolf River planning unit, told the Outagamie County Board's executive committee this morning that it appears only $120,000 in funds from the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) will be available for financing 85 per cent of the program.

According to an original proposal, the FHA would finance 85 per cent of a $276,130 program. The revised program, necessitated by the reduction in anticipated FHA funds, is expected to cost about $148,000, Morris told the committee.

Wolf River planners had received approval from the eight counties for participation in financing the plan whereby water and sewer needs would be studied in communities with a population of 5,500 or less.

16,000 Cost

The Outagamie County board gave unanimous approval to participation in the program at its October meeting.

According to the original planning, Outagamie County would have paid $16,000 as its share of the study. However, Morris told the executive committee today that the share, based on 1955 equalized valuation in the eight counties, would now be $9,334 for Outagamie.

The other eight counties and their proposed shares include: Forest, $334; Langlade, $1,059; Menominee, $254; Shawano, $1,881; Waupaca, $2,447; Waushara, $394; and Winnebago, $10,965. The counties would finance 15 per cent of the proposed study.

Morris told the committee he is expecting word on federal approval of study program at any minute," and explained that the Madison office of the FHA "is preparing the contract," which he indicated "is a pretty good sign we have the grant."

Morris recommended the county proceed as originally planned, even though there will be changes in the program, necessitated by the reduction in available federal monies.

Sylvester Esler, county board chairman, told Morris to inform county officials if final word on the grant is received by Tuesday, so supervisors can take action at the county board meeting. Esler cautioned against moving again on the matter until it is known if FHA funds will be granted.

Morris told the committee that under the original proposal, as acted on by the county boards, there would be a comprehensive plan of the county and the communities, whereas under the revised proposal, there would be a general plan submitted for the counties, as relate to sewer and water needs, and a comprehensive plan for the communities under 5,500 population.

The study also would be reduced from 30 to 24 months, Morris said.

The Wolf River planning official said it is hoped the study program can be staffed and in operation by July 1.

Outagamie County voters stayed away from the polls in great numbers in Tuesday's Supreme Court primary election. Those who did vote followed the state trend, endorsing George R. Currie, incumbent, and Robert W. Hansen, Milwaukee Circuit Court judge.

Currie, now chief justice, received more Outagamie County votes than the combined total of his opponents, totaling 2,496 while Hansen had 1,360 and Harry Halloway, Whitefish Bay attorney, had 565.

Lack of local contests, combined with Tuesday's cold weather, probably helped keep the vote total down. Most areas had only the Supreme Court ballot on which to vote.

Primary Choice

Appleton voters had a primary choice in the board of education race as did the parts of the towns of Grand Chute and Buchanan in Outagamie County. The Town of

Harrison in Calumet County and a small area in the Town of Menasha which are in the Appleton school district. However, none of the less than a dozen Town of Menasha voters in the Appleton School district cast votes in the school board race. The Town of Grand Chute also had a primary election of its own. Of 21,114 Appleton registered voters, 3,403 cast ballots. Appleton also had an aldermanic primary test in two wards.

The Town of Liberty had the low vote total as nine ballots were cast, seven of them by members of the election board. The tabulation showed Currie with seven votes, Hansen with two and Halloway with nine. The towns of Cicero, Deer Creek and Black Creek reported 12 votes each, Maple Creek 13, Maine 14, and Seymour 15.

Town of Horton was the first to report, calling in the results of 17 votes at 5:45 p.m., 45 minutes after the

Neenah High to Join FRVC

FOND DU LAC — Neenah High School will become a member of the Fox River Valley Conference in the 1968-69 school year.

Neenah applied for the FRVC's 12th berth and was accepted this morning during a meeting of conference officials.

Neenah was a charter member of the Northeastern Wisconsin, Western Division, which became the Mid-Eastern Conference 16 years ago. The FRVC will be split into two 6-team divisions for 1968-69 competition. Neenah will join Manitowish and the four Green Bay schools — East, West, Southwest and Preble — in one division. The other division will consist of the two Appleton schools (East and West), the two Sheboygan schools (North and South),

Offered to Town

Appleton Seeks to Abandon Utility at Fox Valley Center

Prof. Harry M. Hutson, new dean of the University of Wisconsin (UW)-Fox Valley Center, received a preview of day to day problems Tuesday when he sat in on a board of trustees meeting which heard Appleton offer to abandon its water and sewer service to the center in favor of the Town of Menasha Sanitary District.

The trustees' meeting was toward the end of the dean's first-day visit to the campus, which started with a 9 a.m. cafeteria committee meeting, proceeded to a 1 p.m. faculty meeting and ended with a 7 p.m. dinner with UW officials.

Hutson will be at the center through Thursday. He will assume full-time administrative duties May 15.

Plans Presented

Eleven representatives from Appleton and the Town of Menasha presented proposed plans for a switch in sewer and water service but, since the two groups had not met to discuss the plan, they offered no details on cost, extent of service, or disposal of equipment now being used.

William Gallaher, Appleton Water Department plant superintendent, explained that the city's new water plan proposes an intake line from Lake Winnebago along the east side of S. Oneida Street.

He said the department feels that since Town of Menasha facilities are all on the west side of Oneida, Appleton should avoid future interference by eliminating the service on that side of the street, and along Midway Road to the Fox Valley Center.

Frank Keuler, Appleton public works department director, said if the Town of Menasha provided water service, it could further today.

perhaps provide sewer service, probably without using a pumping system, since the town already has a sewer line along Midway Road in front of the school.

The sewage is now pumped by a lift station into the city system. Menasha officials could not give the trustees an answer on whether or not they would

Blame Combustion For Tuesday Blaze at Kurz and Root Plant

Spontaneous combustion was blamed for a fire Tuesday night that extensively damaged the interior of a small paint booth at Kurz and Root Co., 232 E. North Island St.

Firemen received the alarm at 6:07 p.m. and remained at the building about an hour and 15 minutes. Firemen brought the blaze under control shortly after they arrived.

The fire reportedly broke out in the filters of the paint spray booth, which firemen said is about eight feet square. Fire "Blue," Susan Bonner, Linda Miller, Pat Kugler, Lynn Lally and Greg Coenen, Xavier, "Royal Gambit."

Vote Getting Power Shown by Four School Board Candidates; 16 Per Cent Go to City Polls

The stage was set Tuesday for Appleton to have a spirited Lane, 1,470.

citywide general election April 4 when two school board positions will be at stake.

A pair of incumbents — Kenneth R. Sager and Victor Sumnicht — led the balloting in Tuesday's primary as voters narrowed a field of five candidates down to four.

—Surnnicht, 17 Silver Spur

—Don C. Smith, 1702 Ravinia Place, 1,403.

—John R. Stevens, 3117 N. Morrison St., 1,257.

—Hahn, 583.

Most Popular

Sager, a member of the Lawrence University faculty, was by far the most popular vote-getter and will be favored to win re-election to another three-year term next month.

Sumnicht, an officer in Sum-nicht Supply Co., is expected to have tough opposition from the other contenders in his bid for another term. He is also a member of the Appleton Park Board.

Making an impressive showing in his first try for an elective office was Smith, a vice president and general manager 918 W. Lindbergh St., a sales engineer for Johnson Service Co., who trailed far behind the others with 583 votes.

The final vote tabulations: —Sager, 525 N. Douglas St., 2,376 votes.

Eliminated from further contention was Warren G. Hahn, 918 W. Lindbergh St., a sales engineer for Johnson Service Co., who trailed far behind the others with 583 votes.

Committee Recommends Upped Quota

Beer-Liquor Store Licenses Set at 18; Kill Waiting Period

Passage and publication of an ordinance increasing Appleton's class A liquor - beer license quota from 14 to 18 were recommended with reluctance by the welfare - ordinance committee Tuesday night.

Several weeks ago the committee was instrumental in getting the council to concur in a recommendation to prepare legislation to make more package goods licenses available.

At the same time, a requirement to hold surrendered licenses in committee for a 30-day period to await applications would be eliminated.

The council voted to eliminate the 30-day waiting period at its last meeting and will now have the license increase before it next Wednesday night for a final vote.

Some Oppose

However, much to the surprise of Ald. Glenn W. Thompson (13th), committee chairman, and others attending the meeting Tuesday night, four members of the committee indicated they now did not favor boosting the license quota to 18.

Their collective opinion will be a part of the committee's report to the council "for informational purposes."

The license problem developed sometime ago when the owner of Southside Beer Depot said he wanted to sell his establishment but a condition of sale was that Ralph and Walter Gunther, the prospective buyers, be assured of getting the class A license. No others were available.

So, the council waived the 30-day period, the license was surrendered and after a short recess at which the committee held a hurried meeting, the council approved Gunther's application.

In the meantime, a situation has again developed that there is another application for a class A license. The applicant is Donald E. Utschig of Appleton. Operators of beer depots and package goods stores in Appleton oppose granting any additional licenses over the present 14 maximum.

Dies While Fixing Auto

Raymond Stoffel, 47, Appleton, Found Dead in Garage

A 47-year-old Appleton man died about noon Tuesday of carbon monoxide poisoning in the closed garage at his home on the city's north side.

The death of Raymond A. Stoffel, 2504 N. Mason St., was listed as apparently accidental, according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, and occurred while Stoffel was repairing his car.

Stoffel's wife, Dorothy, discovered the body on the garage floor at approximately 12:30 p.m. after she returned from a visit to the home of her sister, Mrs. Donald Dietzen, 2600 Main Ave., Kaukauna. Appleton police, assisting with the investigation, said the trunk of the car was open and the hood was up. Tools near the vehicle indicated Stoffel was making mechanical repairs on the auto when he was overcome. Authorities said the garage doors were closed.

'On' Position

Although the car's engine wasn't operating when the body was found, the ignition key was at the "on" position. The fire department rescue squad was called and Stoffel was transported to Appleton Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Stoffel, the father of three boys returned home at 7 a.m. Tuesday after working the night shift at Consolidated Paper Co., where he was employed as a shipping clerk.

Mrs. Stoffel told authorities a BOAC liner into Mt. Fuji, Japan, on March 5, 1956, was included in a 1973,327 award agreement reached Tuesday. When she returned shortly after noon, she noticed the car wasn't in its usual spot in the driveway.

The parents, Donald Fleming, 60, and his wife Mabel, 57, She entered the house but perished with 133 other persons didn't find her husband, Mrs. in the crash. The awards Tuesday brought the settlement total so far to $3,784,272.

Suits involving 16 victims were settled last week and the woman said she repeatedly had warned her husband to be settled for $2 million, against working on the car. The settlements were reached while the garage doors were closed. Kemps said Stoffel died with the British Overseas Airways Co., operator of the liner, and the Boeing Co., its manufacturer. Both were accused of negligence. The body was released to Valley Funeral Home.

A 19-year-old Appleton youth, who last month pleaded guilty of taking three television sets from the H. C. Prange Co., Tuesday afternoon was placed on three years' probation with the State Department of Public Welfare.

David G. Burzynski, 306 N. Appleton St., appeared before Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller after a pre-sentence examination conducted by the welfare agency. The judge withheld sentencing the youth who has been in the county jail since Feb. 21 in lieu of posting bonds totaling $3,000.

The youth was charged with two felony counts and a misdemeanor. Appleton police brought the charges against Burzynski after an investigation which revealed the youth took three television sets from the store in which he was employed.

Felony Thefts

Two of the sets were worth more than $100 and were listed as felony thefts. The other set was valued at $100 or less and, therefore, Burzynski was charged with a misdemeanor.

Judge Keller ordered the youth placed on two concurrent three-year probationary periods, one for each felony count. For the misdemeanor, Burzynski was placed on a one-year's probation with the welfare department. The one-year period will be served concurrent with the three-year periods, the judge said.

Burzynski also was ordered by the judge to arrange for counseling assistance.

Rescue Squad Takes Bleeding Elderly Man From Ramp to Hospital

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad took Ed Schulz, 70, route 1, to Appleton Memorial Hospital about 4:10 p.m. Tuesday after the man began bleeding while in the westbound parking ramp at Division and Wisconsin Streets.

An Appleton police officer, who assisted in the investigation, said Schulz lost a considerable amount of blood. The man had just had an operation, it was learned.

No further reminders will be sent, but those desiring to vote in the April village elections must register by March 22, concluded the clerk.

Doctor, Dentist, Optometrist Shortages Found Some Places

BY E. H. JORRIS M.D.
State Health Officer

Are there enough physicians, dentists, and optometrists in all counties in Wisconsin? The State Board of Health was assigned the task of providing an answer to this question when the federal Health Professions Educational Assistance Act was revised. The act provides loans for students of medicine, osteopathy, dentistry and optometry. The amendments of 1965 provide that graduates who have obtained such loans while in school may obtain cancellation of a portion of the loan if they take up practice in an area where there is a shortage of their professional services. Charles Lemke, director of the Division of Research, has completed a county-by-county study to determine areas of need as defined in the act.

A county is defined as short of professional health service if it has less than one physician for each 1,500 of population, one dentist for each 3,000 of population, or one optometrist for each 15,000 of population. The word "physician" denotes both doctors of medicine and osteopathic physicians.

Blood Center Up 38 Pints Over February 1966

During February 1967, the Community Blood Center drew 172 pints of blood to supply Appleton Memorial, Kaukauna Community and St. Elizabeth Hospitals. The figure is 38 pints higher than the amount drawn at the center during the same month last year.

According to the monthly report, 144 of the donors were men and 28 were women. There were four emergency drawings. Of the total, 138 pints were given by donors participating in the family plan. Under the plan, donors pledge to give one pint of blood a year. In return all members of the immediate family may receive blood whenever necessary. Thirty-seven family-plan members were signed during the month, according to the report.

Officials said all family-plan donors, who originally joined in March, must file membership renewals before March 15.

There are 4,573 physicians in the state, an average of one per 1,500 people. There are 10 presently practicing in Wisconsin. Statewide, this is a ratio of counties with less than one physician for every 373 optometrist for each 15,000 of population. The national average is population. There are six counties in which the ratio is less than one physician for each 1,500 people; in Iron County there is only one physician for 6,600 people. On the other hand, in Dane County there is one physician for each 349 of the population. Two counties have no resident physician.

Wisconsin has 2,239 practicing dentists, which is a ratio of one dentist for each 1,855 persons. There are 14 counties that have less than one dentist for each 3,000 persons, including two where there is no dentist. Adams County has only one dentist to serve 7,500 people. The highest ratio of dentists to population is in Green County where there is one dentist for each 1,416 persons.

There are 448 optometrists in measurement.

Duane Krueger Fined $25 on Conduct Charge

Duane G. Krueger, 25, 2219 N. Appleton St., Monday was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $25 and costs or 12 days in jail.

Krueger was arrested Nov. 28, 1966, and pleaded innocent Dec. 2. Bond of $150 was set. The charge alleged Krueger was driving a car in the 400 block of W. Packard St. when he forced the car, being driven by his estranged wife, into the curb.

Actress Paid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Shirley MacLaine has been given $800,000 for a role in a movie she never made. Superior Judge Ernest J. Zack awarded the summary judgment Monday against 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. for breach of contract. Pleadings in the case showed Miss MacLaine contracted to do the film in 1965 but was told last year production had been abandoned. Her attorney contended she was not required to accept the film company's offer of a role in another picture at equal pay. The judge agreed.

To prove his feeling The Danny Kaye Show is a full-hour, five-act musical built around Giovanni and a scheme by Mrs. Simpson to lead him to the altar. Danny helps establish the characters by using flashbacks of an earlier show. If not the best, it is easily one of the better TV shows he has ever done. The music, songs, dances and acting all blend with a smoothness typical of a Kaye production, particularly the night club sequence and most of all, the Italian wedding at the show's conclusion.

To Your Good Health
Explanation Sought on Possible Injured Nerve

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: In general, is there any treatment for an injured nerve?—H.E.B.

Dear Doctor: Two weeks ago I cut my index finger. Since then I have not regained full use of this finger, and I need it for typing. Although the finger is not sore, it has a "dead" feeling at the tip near the cut. Could there have been some damage to the nerve?—J.H.

These questions can be answered only in general fashion. Nerve injuries are so different in their complexities that readers must not take the following as hard-and-fast gospel for every type of injury.

First of all, a severed nerve, like other kinds of tissue, can repair itself—heal, in other words — if given time. Otherwise the miscellaneous cuts and abrasions that we suffer in our daily lives would cause us much more trouble than they do.

For the nerve to heal, however, the severed ends must remain in appropriate position, just as a broken bone must be set if it is to knit correctly. With a simple, clean knife wound, the surrounding tissues ordinarily will fall back into normal position, and so will the nerve.

In extensive injuries, this may not be so. In the case of large nerves, surgical repair is possible, and the ends can be rejoined, or placed in proper position so that they will grow together again.

This can, at times, be done even if a portion of the nerve has been torn away entirely. Nerve trunks can grow, albeit very slowly, and it can take months for them to extend only a few centimeters.

Small nerves cannot be so treated. They are too tiny, and little can be done except to restore the other tissues to as normal position as possible, and trust that the small nerves can restore themselves. Some degree of numbness, loss of sensation or faulty function may persist.

It does not follow that a nerve injury (in a finger, for example) means that all nerve action will be lost. A sensory nerve may be damaged without a motor nerve being harmed.

In the central nerves of the spinal column, paralysis of parts of the body can result from serious injury, as we know from war wounds and from accidents in civilian life. It "Speech Chant": exhibits 8:15, remains beyond the scope of surgical techniques to deal di-

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND
By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

DOES COUNSELING HELP THOSE WITH MENTAL PROBLEMS? YES NO

Yes. Most people who have gone for help with their personal, emotional or mental problems say they had been helped — some 58 per cent in one national survey. Another 14 per cent report they got some help, and one in five said they had not been helped. About 65 per cent of those who consulted clergymen or physicians reported that they had been helped. This percentage is higher than it was for those who reported being helped by psychiatrists. But psychiatrists, of course, see more difficult cases and attempt more intensive therapy. The important thing is to go for help before a problem becomes too serious.

Which draws people closer together? Love — Fear — Love draws people together more intensely than does love. Think of the people huddled together in the bomb shelters during the war. They were drawn close together by their mutual fear of impending disaster. Love frees a person to be himself, to become and to grow as an individual, just because he loves and is loved. Fear binds and constricts; love releases and lets go. As the poet says, "Let there be spaces in your togetherness."

55 Voices to Give Concert At Lawrence

Marie Taniguchi to Direct Sacred Music Program in Chapel

The Lawrence University Concert Choir will present a program of sacred choral music, in a convocation appearance at 10-40 a. m. Thursday in Memorial Chapel.

Mari Taniguchi, associate professor of music, will conduct the 55-voice ensemble in a program featuring major works by Purcell and Verdi.

Use Brass
The Purcell score uses brass and tympani accompaniment, to be played by trumpeters Edward Engle, Rockford, Ill.; Dr. Edgar M. Turrentine, associate professor of music; trombonists John Schulenburg, 824 W. Front St., Appleton; Robert Boeving, 1919 S. Telulah, Appleton; and tympanist Constance Magistrelli, Cambridge, Mass.

Also on the program will be three excerpts — "Funeral March," "Agnus Dei," and "Hallelujah" — from "Parsifal," Act III, by Wagner. Baritone Dale Duesing, Milwaukee, will be soloist in the Wagner score. Duesing recently won a $100 Metropolitan Opera Studio-Workshop award in the Met's Regional competition in Minneapolis. It was the second consecutive year he appeared in the contest. The singer is a voice student of Miss Taniguchi.

Organ Accompanies
Assisting in the Wagner presentation will be organist John Hall, Eagle River. Hall is a student of LaVahn Maesch, dean of the Conservatory.

Four other sacred scores are listed on the program. "O Solemn" by Anton Bruckner; "Let down the bar, O Death," the setting of an Emily Dickinson poem, by Samuel Barber; "Salvation is Created," by Paul Tchesnokov, and "Good Friday Music in a Cathedral Church," by Anton Nicolau.

The concert is open to the public.

Appleton Woman Guilty of Contributing To Youth's Delinquency

A 20-year-old Appleton woman Tuesday was returned to Outagamie County jail without bond after she pleaded guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year-old minor youth.

Carol Barth, 312 E. Hancock St., was arrested by Appleton police and charged with allegedly staying in a city hotel room with the minor youth Feb. 3.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered a pre-sentence examination and continued the case to March 17 for sentencing.

Amherst Youth Admits Try at Bank Robbery

WAUPACA — The rural Amherst youth captured after a struggle with police on Main Street here Feb. 24 appeared Tuesday before County Judge Wendell McHenry and pleaded guilty of attempted robbery, robbery, car theft and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge McHenry after David E. Kealher, 19, entered the pleas.

Kealher was returned to the county jail where he has been held in lieu of a $15,000 bond since he was arrested. Kealher was charged with the attempted robbery Feb. 24 of the First National Bank of Waupaca. He left the bank after a 19-year-old teller refused to give him the $2,000 he demanded. After the attempted robbery of the bank, Kealher went to the Buttes Bell Service Station, 717 Churchill St., where he robbed a 14-year-old attendant of $46 at gunpoint.

Kealher was captured on Main Street by a county traffic patrolman and two sheriff's deputies a short time after the service station robbery.

The youth was AWOL from the Army and stole a car in Stevens Point on the day of the robberies in Waupaca. Portage County authorities consolidated the stolen car charge with the robbery charges.

Youth Told to Commit Self For Treatment

A 20-year-old Little Chute youth Tuesday afternoon was told by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller to "voluntarily commit yourself (the youth)" to Winnebago State Hospital.

Kenneth C. Gloudemans, 1129 Grand Ave. appeared in Branch 2 Court after pleading guilty Feb. 21 of burglarizing the home of a neighbor in Little Chute Feb. 9. After the plea was entered, Gloudemans was returned to the county jail without bond until he appeared for sentencing Tuesday.

Judge Keller withheld sentence and placed the youth on three-years' probation with the State Department of Public Welfare in addition to telling Gloudemans to commit himself to the hospital.

Follow Instructions
If the youth doesn't follow the court instructions, Judge Keller said "you will be sent away somewhere."

That's a hospital, it isn't a car and other personal property. The judge said. Gloudemans was charged with burglarizing the home of Richard Gerrits, 1128 Grand Ave. At earlier court appearances, the court found Gloudemans owned police and charged with allegedly staying in a city hotel room with the minor youth Feb. 3.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered a pre-sentence examination and continued the case to March 17 for sentencing.

Activities Set for Appleton Observance Of DeMolay Week

About 30 members of the Appleton chapter of DeMolay will begin observing DeMolay Week, Sunday through March 19, by attending the First Methodist Church in a group Sunday.

A special meeting will be held Tuesday by the group and on Wednesday the boys will take over city offices and attend the council meeting at night.

A party with Job's Daughters Friday at the Masonic Temple will culminate the week's activities.

Kenneth Rupright is master counselor and Charles LaRue is in charge of the week's activities.

Primary Vote Sets Stage for Spirited Contest

As the campaigning shapes up in the next few weeks general issues are expected to be the board of education's fiscal and school construction policies.

They were under fire from the Appleton Council last year.

Contributing Factor
Sager's strong showing could be attributed to his personal popularity as a long-time educator in the community, a vote of confidence for the present board, or a combination of both.

On the other hand, the strong showing of Smith and Stevens would indicate a change in the feeling among the electorate. However, the extremely light turnout of voters must also be taken into consideration, keeping in mind that the April 5 election is likely to have 60 to 70 per cent of Appleton's eligible voters at the polls.

The total votes cast in the Appleton school district, which includes some areas in the towns of Grand Chute, Harrison, Buchanan and Menasha, was reported the total number of city residents going to the polls was 3,403, representing only 16 per cent of Appleton's 21,114 eligible voters.

Broehm had predicted, with a good degree of accuracy, that it would be a light vote with the total reaching 3,000 or so.

The weather was cold but clear and may have accounted for some stay-at-homes. But the general feeling among election observers was that no real interest had been generated.

However, this should be a different story by April 4 when several aldermanic races will be on the ballot. Ward contests in a citywide election historically bring out a heavy vote.

Pollution Suit Factor in Nichols Incorporation

Hope Sewage Treatment Facilities Will Be Built if Community Attains Village Status

NICHOLS — Prodded by an impending $430,000 lawsuit and when no action was taken, the court suit was initiated.

Shioe River, residents of this unincorporated community have taken the first steps toward incorporation and the municipal sewage treatment facilities they hope the move will bring.

While the lawsuit, filed in October, 1966 by the attorney general's office with the Dane County Clerk of Circuit Court is not the only factor leading to the decision to incorporate, it did speed up the process, according to Gerald Lorge, Bear Creek attorney who is serving as legal counsel for the incorporation committee.

The suit seeking the huge penalty was initiated on a complaint by the Department of Resource Development and alleges that the people of the unincorporated community are polluting the river with untreated sewage.

Dumped into River
The community has a sewage collection system of laterals and mains, but does not have a treatment plant. The sewage is piped directly into the river.

An order issued in 1952 by the state committee on water pollution demanded that the Town of Cicero take steps to eliminate the practice before the end of 1953.

There was much correspondence between the town and the state, but no action was taken. A representative of the attorney general's office told the Post-Crescent Tuesday.

In 1963 the town was issued tee made surveys of cities of comparable size, considering geographical location, and had not taken an arbitrary position. He felt the union had shown rigidity in Monday's meeting but felt progress was made.

"I regret that someone else had to come in and bring us together but I will work for a settlement," MacDonald declared.

It prompted Schlieve to reply, "You have just made a public defense of your position."

And at that point Kirby pointed out it was not unusual to call upon mediators after extended negotiations.

Referring to the presence of the two mediators, Kirby added, "We're here to wrap it up if we can. We will not make decisions for you or judge the merits of your positions."

Assist Both Sides

Kirby said the mediators would assist both sides in resolving the issues and at the same time watch for any developments not consistent with good bargaining.

On wages, the union seeks a 14-cent increase this year and 13 cents in 1968, with a cost of living clause. Without the cost of living feature the union is asking for 15 cents this year and 15 cents in 1968.

The city's wage proposal is for a 13-cent hike this year and 12 cents in 1968 with no cost of living clause.

On insurance, the union wants a 70 per cent city contribution this year and 85 per cent in 1968. The city would rather make it a fixed dollars and cents amount and has offered to increase its contribution by $3 in 1968.

A letter to city officials Tuesday day criticizing the council's personnel committee in its dealings with Teamsters Local 543 led to the mediation session at city hall.

Mayor George Buckley, reacted to the possibility of a walkout and called in the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB).

The WERB is mediating the dispute as a result of a strong letter Schlieve sent to the mayor. City Clerk Elden Brohm and Aid. John MacDonald (7th), personnel committee chairman.

need the lift station, saying it depended on the relationship of the sewer line on Midway Road to the depth of the sewer in front of the school.

When asked about rates, Menasha Sanitary District chairman, Walter Bylewski, said he would have to discuss the proposal with the town's engineer. Appleton does not charge for sewer service, but the water charge is the current Appleton rate, plus 40 per cent, because the service is outside the city.

The trustees also asked Appleton to determine ownership of the lift station equipment.

The trustees raised the question of whether they want to pick up a new tax assessment from the Town of Menasha just because Appleton wants to abandon the system.

Keuler said his morning that a meeting between the Town of Menasha and Appleton water-sewer men has been set for 4 p.m. March 22 at the Appleton Water Department building.

Middle Aged Excused From Studying Algebra

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There is no freedom like middle-aged freedom.
Just a few years ago people used to hate reaching their 40th birthday. They'd even try to hide the fact from themselves and the rest of the world.
They felt that merely being 40 had a sound of senility to it, as if their life had been put on the shelf. They silently mourned the passing of their youth.

Well, sir, today that is an old-fashioned view. People have awakened to the discovery that 40 can be an exit from slavery, a milestone on the path of true human liberty. Far from being a disgrace, it is a condition of dignity and has its advantages and privileges.
For example:
You are too old to have to wait to accept a dinner invitation, your wife can always phone the hostess and explain, "sorry, we won't be able to make it. You know Henry's gall bladder—it's been acting up again."
Any company is glad to issue you a credit card, figuring that by now you have reached the age of responsibility.
You can express your views on national and international politics without being regarded as a smart aleck young whipper-snapper.

Touch of Gray
That touch of gray at your temples makes you look more distinguished, and helps bring out the hidden character lurking behind your baggy eyes.
The pretty girls at the office now think you are "harmless"—add, boy, that's where they make their mistake! There is no devil with the ladies like a middle-aged devil.
Restaurant headwaiters, counting on the possibility of a larger tip, automatically give you seating precedence over waiting younger men.

Barbers and taxicab drivers no longer try to regale you with risqué jokes which were old even when you were in high school. They realize your mind is on grave and important matters.
Firmly Entrenched
Your position in the office hierarchy is now so firmly established that you can get a new cushion for your swivel chair without a committee meeting things.
Your wife now takes it for granted that you love her, and no longer demands that you explain why.
There is no law on earth that can compel you to stay up after midnight—unless you really want to.
All the recurrent and annoying emergencies that used to clutter your life begin to fade. You begin to quit wasting your energy doing unnecessary things.

Open Primary Bill Fails Senate Test

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Wisconsin's bipartisan effort to rewrite state presidential primary laws lost its first test of strength Tuesday in the state Senate.

The Legislature's upper house sent back to committee the bill which would create an "open" primary in the state as a test of all presidential nomination candidates, after its main backer had called upon the body to kill the bill or pass it during the afternoon session.

A coalition of Republicans and Democrats combined to return the bill to the Senate Judiciary Committee by an 18 to 15 vote, after Senate President Pro Tem Robert Knowles, R-New Richmond, told the lawmakers that the time had come to act upon the measure.

The bill is the product of more than a year's work by a special committee comprised of leaders of the state Republican and Democratic parties, and leading legislators.

All contenders

It would create an "Oregon-style" primary in Wisconsin in which a select 11-man committee would place on the April ballot the names of all persons they believed to be serious contenders for the presidential nominations of both parties.

On the committee would be five representatives of each party and the chief justice of the state Supreme Court.

The bill also would allow other contenders to place their names on the ballot by gaining about 15,000 petition signatures, and would allow a person placed on the ballot to remove his name by disavowing presidential aspirations in the upcoming election.

It would also assure state voluntary parties control over the make up of their state delegations to the national convention, a stipulation not now contained in state election laws, and one which proved to be the downfall of the measure as it came to a vote Tuesday.

Support Bossism

Senate minority leader Fred Risser, D-Madison, blasted the bill as a booster of "bossism" in state political parties, and said that it would not allow the average citizen to take part in presidential politics on the state level.

Under present law, presidential candidates must submit their own list of state residents as potential delegates to the national convention. In recent years, major candidates have usually left this in both major parties to the state organization, but they are not required to do so under the law.

Risser charged that the bill was being sped through the Senate and that a promised rehearing of the proposal by the Senate Judiciary Committee, of which he is a member, has not been held.

The bill was reported out of the committee after a sparsely attended hearing, he said, when he was out of town.

Knowles charged that the request to return the bill to committee was "an attempt to kill it by misdirection." The bill will be heard when it comes before the Assembly if it is passed by the Senate, he said.

Risser and Sen. George Borg, R-Delavan, objected that the bill was being considered in an amended form never considered at a public hearing. The changed moved back the primary election date to its present April schedule, rather than a proposed May date.

Congress Indifferent

NSA Wants Probe Of Link to CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Student Association still is shopping around for a sympathetic congressional committee to probe its once-secret financial ties to the Central Intelligence Agency.

But spokesmen for the student group said Tuesday they are having trouble generating congressional interest in the controversy that erupted last month.

NSA acting press secretary Greg Movsesyn said the student group would prefer to have an investigation conducted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

But that committee — while offering to accept NSA tax records — hasn't yet shown any inclination to hold hearings on the matter, said Movsesyn.

Subpoena Records

He said the student group fears its records may soon be subpoenaed by a committee that doesn't favor an investigation. He specifically mentioned the Senate's CIA "watchdog" committee.

Some of the watchdog committee members, said Movsesyn, have indicated their acceptance of the CIA's past program of subsidizing students secretly as a means to combat Communist student propaganda.

A former NSA president, Philip Sherburne, 24, met Tuesday behind closed doors with the Foreign Relations Committee, but would not comment afterwards. Neither would committee chairman J. W. Fulbright.

A staff spokesman said the committee would be glad to "provide safekeeping" for the NSA records. But he said the

People of Northeast Get First Wet Season in 6 Years

By JEAN HELLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Residents of the northeastern United States have come to expect spring without rain enough for crops, summer without rain enough for recreation, winter without snow enough to melt into parched reservoirs.

Season after season, storms and even floods have swept nearly every other area of the nation. But the people of the Northeast got rain only in sprinkles, snow only in flurries.

They suffered through one of the longest, hardest droughts in the area's history.

But now, after nearly six years, maybe — just maybe — the drought is slowly breaking.

In the past five weeks, snow and rain have poured over the Eastern Seaboard, severe enough that at times it seemed the weather was trying to make up for six years in one short season.

With a few exceptions, reservoir levels are inching up toward near-normal. Groundwater levels are rising. Water restrictions that have almost

Domestic Release of Documentary On Johnson Opposed by Mundt

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Karl E. Mundt said today the home-front release of U.S. Information Agency documentary films on President Johnson would be political propaganda.

Other senators from both parties joined him in opposing domestic distribution of USIA materials. But Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he doesn't believe their release would propagandize Americans so long as the agency carried out its proper objective: "To convey the unvarnished truth."

Mundt, of South Dakota, said the party in control of the White House would use the material for its own political advantage.

He said two motion pictures prepared for overseas distribution "tend to glorify" President Johnson — and properly so.

Re-election Campaign

"He's our man," Mundt said. "But I don't think that should be used as a prelude for a re-election campaign in the United States."

"I'm afraid that if a documentary on a living president was put out domestically, the Republicans would raise the roof," Mansfield said.

USIA films depict Johnson against a Texas backdrop and on his Pacific-Asian tour late last year.

Mansfield and Mundt discussed in interviews a proposal of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Information suggesting that USIA make available to interested Americans — on request, material it distributes overseas.

By policy but not by statute, the commission said, this practice has been ruled out.

Explain Strike, Local Ordered

Rebellious Ohio Division of UAW Stages 2nd Wildcat

DETROIT (AP) — Officials of a rebellious Ohio local were ordered to Detroit today to explain to United Auto Workers chieftains why workers walked out at a General Motors plant less than two weeks after a similar wildcat strike crippled GM operations.

There was a possibility the UAW would put Local 549 of Mansfield, Ohio, under trusteeship, taking it out of the hands of its officers and putting it under control of the international union.

The new walkout began late Monday night and continued through Tuesday as first-shift workers refused to cross early morning picket lines.

Return to Job

Later in the day, picketing halted and workers began returning to their jobs. The Richland County sheriff's office estimated about half the overnight shift went to work late Tuesday night.

More than 1,000 of the scheduled 1,200 workers reported to their jobs on the day shift today, a GM spokesman said, and production was "pretty much back to normal." He said the absentee rate was about normal.

The earlier walkout at Mansfield, where parts are made for 90 per cent of General Motors cars, led to shutdowns and layoffs at 86 company plants, idling some 196,000 workers.

Both GM and the UAW International Executive Council termed the mid-February walkout illegal and the union chiefs ordered strikers back to work.

Kellett Bill Faces Another New Crisis

GOP Legislators Battering Proposed Conservation Merger

MADISON (AP)—The Kellett reorganization bill, veteran of as many cliff-hanging episodes as a stuntman for an oldtime movie serial, faced a new crisis over conservation in the state Senate today.

Lawmakers rained new attacks on the stormy proposal to merge conservation with water pollution control programs at a closed-door Republican caucus Tuesday. The caucus was carried over until today, with possibly no vote on the bill until Thursday.

Majority Leader Jerris Leonard R-Bayside, said most of the opponents of the conservation merger were unwilling to accept a delay in the marriage date until 1971 as a compromise.

Leonard said he would halt his efforts to get a showdown vote on the measure before the legislature recesses Thursday night should amendments shred the reorganization bill.

"It's my intention to keep grinding for a vote on the amendments and if it becomes apparent the amendments are emasculating the bill, then we will stop and go back until after April 3," Leonard said.

The omnibus bill, written by the Kellett task force, would rearrange 86 state agencies into 26 major departments and boards.

Its most controversial items are proposed mergers of conservation and water programs, and of the welfare and health departments. Leonard, who is opposed to the latter merger, government announced today.

Terrorists also wounded 114 persons and abducted 57 others, the report said. The dead included four policemen and a hamlet chief.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The snowbound motorist had no political pull, but he got a big push from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Main Dish Roll-Ups

Turkey Enchiladas

POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR
Lillian Mackesy

With these days of high food prices it takes a bit of scrambling to keep menus attractive and yet bursting with quality. Entertaining can become a drag since no homemaker in her right mind is about to bust the budget. But there are ways to get around even high prices and these interesting roll-up recipes are one way to do it.

Most of the food budget goes into meats, as it should. So, the trick is to work around meat specials with recipes that have a bit of leeway. It also helps if those recipes have a bit of flair . . . the kind that impresses the diner. A suggestion for the gal who enjoys hostessing is to keep a file of recipes for company. Arrange it according to use, such as the buffet supper, the late snack, the afternoon get-together as well as the friendly coffees with delicious (well-planned but seemingly spur-of-the-moment) snacks on hand.

Such a file of menus, complete with recipes to back it up, is invaluable to the party homemaker who really likes preparing good food for company. (This might be an excellent place for filing those quantity recipes for the really big party or open house.)

Entree or main dish recipes should be gems, every one. There are too many recipes available these days to waste time filing or keeping those which turn out to be duds. Once tried out among the right people, (sometimes the family is not the right place for testing certain recipes, depending on their likes and dislikes) they can either be discarded or filed . . . but file them in the right place so they may be plucked out at a moment's notice.

For the homemaker who enjoys reading recipe books and has a fine collection of them, make the card file a sort of index system with the book name and page number and a brief description of the recipe with just the right kind of words to conjure up the dish mentally. This is a big help and saves a

Recipe Ideas For Chicken

On a busy day, a supply of chicken breast meat in the freezer guarantees fast, delicious meals. Here's how to do it.

At your leisure, bone and skin six or eight chicken breasts or purchase them boneless at the market. Cut half the quantity into strips for quick dishes, the rest into 1 1/2 inch nuggets for later frying or oven-frying. Pack the pieces in moisture-vapor-proof wrap, allowing no unnecessary air to get in the packages. Seal well with freezer tape and label and date.

The prepared white meat will be a virtual gold mine for "instant gourmet" dishes. Besides, chicken is one of the best buys today.

LEMONY QUICK CHICK

This is perfection for dinner party fare, cooks in less than 10 minutes. Bone three whole chicken breasts and remove skin. Cut each breast half into 10 or 12 strips. Melt three tablespoons butter in a skillet over high heat, add chicken. Sprinkle with one tablespoon flour, and add salt and tarragon to taste. Cook five minutes stirring constantly. Add half-cup chicken broth, three halved lemon slices, and stir. Cover and cook three minutes longer. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve with rice. Recipe makes six servings.

Canned Vegetables In Cheese Sauce Being Developed

MADISON — Vegetables in canned cheese sauce may eventually be available on the market, according to University of Wisconsin food scientist K. G. Weckel.

Weckel says that canned vegetables in cheese sauces are now being developed and may compete favorably with frozen vegetables in butter sauce, a product now available to the housewife.

Cheese sauce adds flavor to vegetables and gives a rich, yellow color to the product.

Processes for canned vegetables in butter sauce were developed by University food scientists some time ago. These products are now produced commercially by some food processors. But Weckel says cheese sauce is more difficult to make and is more costly than butter sauce.

Fish Recipes From French Brittany

The French province of Brittany is renowned for wonderful food especially for the local ways with fish and seafood.

The sea which surrounds the little peninsula offers up a fantastic variety of fish. With thrift and ingenuity the Bretons have conjured up the most delectable way to prepare each one of them.

The best foods do not always come in glamorous packages, a fact which French housewives must be aware but seemingly ignore. They just go ahead and create beautiful dishes of them anyway.

Dried cod, for example, would hardly win a beauty contest in today's supermarket. Nor would dried beans, for that matter, or pickles, which often are called "the homely vegetables." But with our Breton-inspired recipe, these three foods mingle to produce a superb casserole with aroma and flavor which only can be called beautiful.

With a less romantic background but a product of the same philosophy about humble fish and pickles, is the recipe for Pickle Haddock Patties. There's nothing unusual about serving fish in this form, but sauce boils one minute, there is something unusual about the flavor of these fish beans and pickles: turn into two-cakes. It's the sweet mixed quart casserole. Sprinkle with pickles that are responsible for the degree over 20 minutes. Garnish with pickle strips, if desired.

PICKLE HADDOCK PATTIES

- 2 tablespoons chopped green onions or scallions
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 cups light cream
- 2 to 3 eggs
- 1 cup chopped sweet mixed pickles
- 2 pounds haddock fillets, poached and flaked
- Bread crumbs
- Oil for frying
- Horseradish Sauce

Saute onion in butter. Remove from heat; quickly stir in flour 16 patties.

Return to heat and, stirring constantly, cook until thickened. Gradually beat some hot sauce into one egg, slightly beaten; blend smooth.

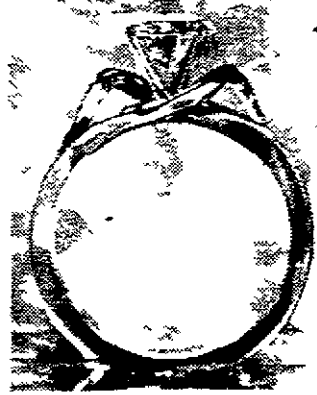

Return to hot mixture; cook, stirring until a thick paste is formed.

Remove from heat; stir in pickles and haddock; mix well. Allow quarter-cup fish mixture for each patty. Coat each portion with crumbs and shape into patty. Chill thoroughly.

Dip into one egg, slightly beaten (use extra egg if necessary), then coat with crumbs again. Fry in hot oil at 390 degrees until lightly browned.

Saute onion in butter. Remove from heat; quickly stir in flour 16 patties.

For girls with engaging ideas.

Blend a quality cut stone with an individual fashioned setting and you'll satisfy your idea of a beautiful diamond.

Consider Cost, Convenience of Dairy Products

Convenience and cost are important factors to consider when deciding whether to purchase dairy products at the store or have them home-delivered, according to Rosemary Stare, consumer marketing specialist, University of Wisconsin.

A family's needs should be determined and then a comparison made between home delivery and store costs, she suggests. The convenience may be worth the extra cost and home deliverer may save extra trips to the food market.

Recent changes in local milk purchasing plans since home delivery is now more competitive in price. The volume of milk used by a family is another consideration because larger sizes are more economical per serving cost. However, quantity purchases are a savings only if all the product is used.

A convenient method of purchasing milk is in home delivered refrigerator dispensers. The cost per gallon is reasonable and a larger supply of milk can be stored in one large unit rather than several small containers. Small children can serve themselves with less danger of spilling or breaking. Mrs. Stare says.

Most stores display about six types of fresh milk in two or three container sizes. Dry milk is also available in a variety of package sizes.

Price comparisons, a knowledge of family taste preferences, needs, accessibility to food stores and the value of convenience should help a consumer decide which method of milk buying is best.

From the northern coast of France, where good food is famous, came the inspiration for this no-nonsense, thick-to-the-ribs casserole that's also utterly delicious. Sweet gherkins gently spice the savory mixture derived from dried cod and dried beans.

Many Vietnamese Girls have traded their traditional ao dais, with their high necklines, long sleeves and pantaloons, for the latest fashion fad, the miniskirt. American entertainer, Chris Noel, started the trend when she was in Vietnam this winter. (AP Wirephoto)

Saigon's 'Ao Dai' Dealt Mini-Blow

By JOHN NANCE
SAIGON (AP) — You don't see many miniskirts in Saigon, but when you do they look mighty mini.
The traditional dress in Vietnam is the ao dai with high neckline, long sleeves and pantaloons to the shoe tops. The ao dai covers up everything. In the midst of all that, the mini looks like a bikini at a full dress ball.

Mark Anniversary
NAVARINO — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Avery Wilber.

When honey blonde and shapely American entertainer Chris Noel pranced in her miniskirt through Saigon's Central Market, the eyes of the fish peddlers nearly popped into their bass baskets.

It isn't that the mini is so terribly much more sexy. The ao dai, although it covers a lot, has plenty going for it. The mini has novelty appeal and foreign flavor, besides what it does for the shapely.

Traditional Thinking
A serious young Vietnamese lawyer reflects the thinking of the traditionalists: "I sometimes like to see the miniskirt, but I certainly wouldn't want my girl friend to wear one. The ao dai is much better, more discreet. The miniskirt is just a fad."

An attractive secretary has another view.
"I was shocked when I first saw a miniskirt four or five months ago, but now I think months ago, but now I think the new style. I'd love to wear one, except everyone in my office would make fun."

Shorten Weekly
"What I have done, though, is shorten the hem on a couple of my European dresses. Every week I take them up another inch or so — now they come just above the knee. My mother hasn't noticed yet, but I don't think I can go much higher."

All-out support for the mini comes from an 18-year-old boy who says, "I like them. I'd like my girl friend to wear one. In fact, I'd like all the girls to wear them — if they have pretty legs, that is."

Pain in Neck

Next to a cold in the head, a pain in the neck seems to be the complaint of the season. And desk workers lead the complainers.

The trouble usually starts about mid-afternoon with a tight feeling in the back of the neck and shoulders that eventually becomes painful. If you are subject to the ailment you know it's pure misery — as well as a drain on your energy and efficiency.

To overcome the problem you first must understand its causes. Almost always it is rooted in nervous tension from work pressures or muscular tension from poor working posture.

When you work against time at demanding tasks, it is not abnormal for your nerves to tighten up. You should make an effort, however, to relieve strain before it reaches the painful stage. Simply walk away from your work for 10 minutes. Use the period to tidy up and to sip a hot beverage.

If pain beats you to a work break, try applying either a hot or cold compress to the nape of the neck. Use whichever temperature brings ease. It differs with different people.

As for fatigued muscles, the answer is an "easy seat." You achieve one when you sit squarely on your hips, with

Brave Play Not Always Worth Merit

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Nobody gives you medals for courage at the bridge table. If you take a finesse over and above the call of duty, you wind up with egg on your face instead of ribbons on your chest.

South took the ace of hearts and led a club at once to try a finesse with dummy's queen. East won with the king of clubs, cashed a heart trick and then returned the king of diamonds. South took the ace of diamonds, led a club to the ace and ruffed a club with the king of spades. He continued with the ace of spades, a spade to dummy's nine, and another club ruff. He could then lead his last trump to dummy's queen and cash the last club.

The only trouble was that declarer wound up with two losing diamonds in each hand and that he had already lost two tricks. Down one.

Sure to Lose

The trouble with South's plan was the club finesse. East was the club finesse. East needed all of the missing kings and queens for his vulnerable opening bid. The club finesse was therefore sure to lose, and there was no advantage in taking it.

South should play a low club from both hands at the second trick. East wins with the ten of clubs on the queen and eight of clubs.

This cautious line of play wins no medals, but it does bring in the game and rubber.

Daily Question

Dealer, at your left, opens with one heart, and your partner doubles. The next player passes. You hold: S 5 4 2, H 8 7 5 2, D 10 3, C J 9 7 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs. The weaker the hand, the more essential it is to respond to partner's takeout double. If he has a sound takeout double, you will not be in trouble at two clubs.

Teen Magazine Sponsors Fashion Show for Blind

By KELLY SMITH
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Leggy fashion models strutted. The audience of teenagers clapped and sang. They let out breathless sighs and asked for more. Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, wife of the vice president, was at the Fifth Avenue-like fashion show. So were three cabinet wives.

One hundred bouncy high school girls sat at round yellow tables sipping soft drinks. They talked about baseball, school, hemlines and boys.

Hushed to Hear
 But they had to be hushed to hear the program — they couldn't see it because they're blind.

They heard a yellow dress described as "warm as the summer sun" and red called "zippy as pizza."

When a miniskirt was introduced as "a full hand above the knee," they howled. Even Mrs. Humphrey blushed.

Girl's Reaction
 "I've got to have one," said Charlotte Rehder, 17, of Baltimore. "But my mother will kill me if I wear it." The girls own attire showed every evidence they are style St. Bridget Catholic Church at 8 conscious. Most said their mothers helped them choose clothes. Viola Roli.

great deal of time both in searching and copying the recipe down when it's already available.

Since poultry is one of the best buys at the moment, the enchilada recipe is excellent. Either leftover turkey from the refrigerator or freezer may be used, or the vacuum-packed turkey may be used.

In this delightful dish, the seasoning is canned tomato sauce, oregano, canned chiles, onion, garlic and cheese.

Vegetables are featured in the Ham-Asparagus Rolls, a dish one-two-three easy to make. Served au gratin, this dish is an appetite teaser. A stuffed rolled steak served with buttermilk gravy makes a fine substitute for the elegant crowned roast. This recipe uses the less expensive cuts of beef . . . in this case round steak — cooked at low temperature with moist heat.

The Braised Beef Rolls are Swedish in origin and wonderfully good. Again, round steak cut thick and pounded thin is used.

Two lasagna surprises, prepared from those convenient packaged lasagna dinners, also are excellent recipes to have on hand when unexpected company turns up . . . or for those busy days when committee meetings are overlong.

Here they are, well worth trying.

TURKEY ENCHILADAS
3 cups ground, cooked turkey
1½ cups shredded mozzarella cheese
1 can sliced ripe olives (2½-ounce can)
1½ cups cottage cheese
1 dozen corn tortillas
Vegetable oil
1 can green chiles, seeds removed, chopped (4-ounce can)
1 large onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
16 ounces canned tomato sauce
1 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon salt
Shredded mozzarella cheese

Combine turkey, 1½ cups shredded cheese, olives and cottage cheese.

Fry tortillas in oil just until limp. Fill each tortilla with about one-third cup turkey mixture. Roll up and place in shallow baking dish in single layer, seam side down.

Saute chopped chiles, onion and garlic in two tablespoons oil. Add tomato sauce, oregano and salt. Simmer five minutes. Pour over enchiladas. Sprinkle with more shredded cheese.

Bake in 350-degree oven for 25 minutes. Recipe makes six servings.

STUFFED ROLLED STEAK WITH BUTTERMILK GRAVY
4 cups bread cubes
¾ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped parsley
½ cup butter, melted (1 stick)
3 teaspoons seasoned salt
2 (1-pound) slices boned round steak, cut ¼-inch thick
½ cup water
2 beef bouillon cubes
2 tablespoons flour

Combine bread cubes, onion, parsley, one-fourth cup butter and one teaspoon seasoned salt; mix. Divide in half.

Sprinkle remaining seasoned salt over two slices of meat. Cover each slice of meat with half meat mixture. Roll each up and tie.

Melt remaining butter in large frypan over low heat. Sauce, oregano, canned chiles, onion, garlic and cheese.

Vegetables are featured in the Ham-Asparagus Rolls, a dish one-two-three easy to make. Served au gratin, this dish is an appetite teaser. ## Senator Smith Slighted By White House Snub

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith thinks the White House has snubbed her and those who know the determined Republican from Maine think the Johnson administration may regret the episode.

When President Johnson summoned top leaders of both parties to the White House Feb. 27 to brief them on the mining of North Vietnam rivers and artillery shelling across the demilitarized zone, Mrs. Smith was not invited.

At the opening of Congress, Republicans elected the woman senator as chairman of their party conference. This is a position filled with honor and little else except the right to attend bipartisan briefings.

At the Feb. 27 briefing, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, his assistant, were on hand to hear Johnson explain his newest moves.

Not Unusual
A Democratic senator who was present said there was nothing unusual about Mrs. Smith's absence. He said Johnson customarily invites only the minority leader and his assistant to such sessions.

But this and other explanations didn't mollify the Maine senator.

Friends of the woman senator think the administration may have been trying to retaliate for her criticism of what she called the "credibility gap" about some of its actions.

Mrs. Smith told the Senate on Feb. 23 that as the top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee she intends to support Johnson "against his critics, most notably from within his own political party, who urge a pullout and literally a surrender in Vietnam."

But she added: "I cannot in all good conscience muzzle my own criticism of some of the aspects of our national security under the administration and policies of President Johnson and Secretary of Defense (Robert S.) McNamara."

The Swinging Set

Connie Stevens on Everything

BY SYLVIE REICE

"I love working in the theater. I love the instantaneous response. . . You don't have to wait to see a piece of film to know if you're working well; the audience lets you know. And there's the challenge of finding something new to do with your lines every night. At first I didn't think I could do it — but I do."

That's Connie Stevens talking about her recent Broadway debut in the hit show, "Star Spangled Girl." "My co-star (Tony Perkins) says he can tell in the second act if I'm going to run out of steam in the third. I eat lemon and honey drops between the acts — I buy them in a health food store — I don't know if they really help — it's the psychological value. Every actor has something like that."

Broadway Role
Connie might well need every energy booster she can get for her role. In it, she's a belligerent ex-Olympic swimmer, a star-spangled, flag-waving small-town pitched ideologically against two Dartmouth grads turned editor — entrepreneurs of a protest magazine.

"What made me want to go into show business? I guess the movies. I'd go three times a day. Once I went to a movie that had three features, a serial and 21 cartoons running. Then I'd come home and tell in the stories to my father and brother. They'd get completely hypnotized by me. When my brother saw the movies himself, he'd say they weren't as good as my description of them."

Star's Glamour
"All the glamour of being a movie star — I guess it got to me. But now, there aren't many real stars left. I guess the Beatles were the last ones with a real star image. I think studios are making a mistake not building up their young talent. Who's going to replace the greats? Where are the Cary Grants, the Bogarts, the Cagneyes going to come from? They're still popular with teens. I think teens need stars to imitate. Show people should be style — setters. The closest I came was in 'Hawaiian Eye' when kids picked up hats, shorty mums and long ponytails from me."

Connie rattles on. She's quick and energetic. "Boy, did you ask the right person about teenage fan mail! I got it and still do. At last count, I was getting 6,000 letters a week. That's just at the studio alone. I also get them at the theater, at home, anywhere I am. I feel that if my fans bothered to write, the least I can do is answer. They write about everything — even deep down problems. I'm to the point where I can almost tell a bad letter before I open it. I used to really enjoy the fan mail, but it can become disturbing. I feel I'm somehow responsible to all these kids with problems."

Connie has lots of hobbies — she's a decorator, a housewife, a California boutique called "The Poor Daffodil." "We stock all kinds of clothes, some very expensive, a lot of handmade items and also the mod clothes. I buy the same kind of clothes for my boutique that I would choose for myself. . . Teen-age fashions are just great. Mini-skirts look fabulous. I don't like them on older girls (past 20 or so) but at about 16, they are just fantastic. I only like the really short ones with tights. I went dancing one night and saw a girl who had on every cliché thing that is a fad right now. She had long hair, micro skirt, boots, everything that's in. And it was just too much. I started laughing and had to retreat to the ladies room. I got hysterical. I just couldn't help when kids picked up hats, shorty mums and long ponytails from me."

Connie rattles on. She's quick and energetic. "Boy, did you ask the right person about teenage fan mail! I got it and still do. At last count, I was getting 6,000 letters a week. I feel I'm somehow responsible to all these kids with problems."

Don't ask.

Insist!

For a surprise meal, wrap cooked lasagna from a packaged lasagna dinner, around rolled slices of ham stuffed with canned or freshly cooked string beans. Spoon sauce over the meat and vegetable rolls, sprinkle with grated cheddar or romano cheese and pop into oven in a baking dish for about 20 to 25 minutes.

New Process Cleans Leather

Even if you can't pronounce Clutaraldehyde, just remember that it's a government-developed process to make leather last longer, wear better, wash easily in warm soap or detergent suds, and dry without stiffening or cracking. It is being used for golf gloves, shoe uppers, coats, and other leather fashions.

Leather has always been elegant, and assured washability now makes it economical as well.

Refrigerator Paint Will Do Nice Job

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: My refrigerator is still in perfect condition. But we are planning to redecorate our kitchen, and I'd like to know if there are enamels around for painting refrigerators, other than white.

A: Yes ma'am, there certainly are. Just step into any good paint store, tell the man your plans, and he'll show you a rainbow selection of enamels made for this type of job. He'll also remind you that before any painting goes on, you must get the finish not only surgically clean where grease is concerned, but slightly roughened, to give the new finish a good bond.

Q: One of the sharp points of my steam iron dug quite a hole in my kitchen linoleum after being knocked from the ironing board. Is this a simple repair job?

A: Quite simple — especially if you have an extra piece of the linoleum. Pulverize a little of it, enough to fill the hole. This should give you a powder of a matching shade. Mix this with clear household cement or varnish and fill the hole. When dry, sand level with the surface. Next time you wax the floor, see how good a camouflage job you did.

Q: Where can I get information on how to install house wiring? I am thinking of building myself.

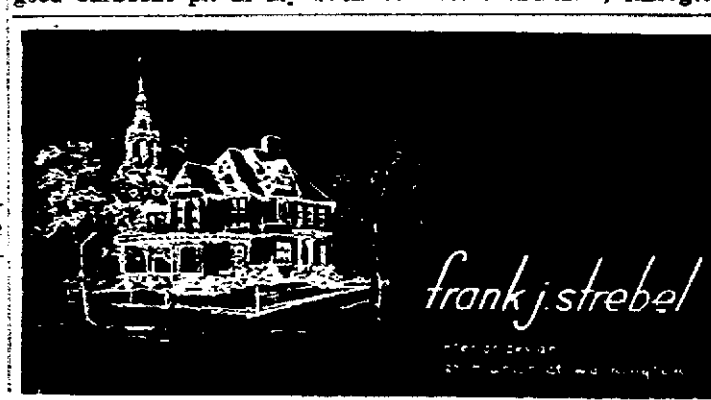

A: Popular Science Monthly, 355 Lexington Avenue, New York City, has published "How to be Your Own Elec-yard. Where can I get the plans and materials? I want to get things lined up early.

A: Check newsstands and hardware store magazine racks. They have a variety of how-to books and magazines on most subjects, including this one. Your branch of the Portland Cement Association can supply illustrated details. Or write to the main office at 33 West Grand Ave., Chicago.

Former 'Light-Fingered' Teen Finds 'Honesty Best Policy'

BY ANN LANDERS
I went into the fitting room to try on suits and blouses and I walked out of the store wearing a skirt under my dress. For two weeks I was half-sick with guilt. I didn't dare wear the skirt because my mother would ask where it came from. I couldn't sleep at night for fear she would find it. I couldn't concentrate on my school work. Finally I broke down and told my mother what I had done. She didn't holler or faint. She in a miffen or shove up my just said, "We are taking the sleeve. I didn't think I was skirt back to the store. You will do anything wrong. All I tell the store manager what you thought about was how clever I did and you will then pay for was to get away without being the skirt out of your allowance." Six months ago I took an expensive wool skirt right under the saleslady's nose. I simply wouldn't steal another thing for all the money in the world. I have learned my lesson and I thank God I learned it before I got picked up by detectives. All the psychologists in the world can't figure out exactly why people steal. I don't know why I stole, but I can tell all kids everywhere I am 100 per cent happier now than I have slept in his pajamas one night.

Landers

ever been in my life. — Ex-Thief
Dear Ex: Your new-found happiness is the result of a clear conscience. Thank you for writing. I hope all teenagers with taking ways will get the message.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: You probably have heard enough about this subject but I must have my say. I didn't like your snide remark that just because a man likes to sleep in his wife's nightgown there must be something wrong with him. My husband told me a long time ago that his pajamas were uncomfortable and he wanted to borrow my nightgown. Just to "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped,

Have you ever slept on a self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin with your request. The waist cord feels like. The buttons are like rocks and the seams in the trousers cut into me like a knife. You will not be allowed to print this letter because your advertising department would catch the devil from your men's stores and after all, money is what keeps newspapers going. — The Truth is Dead
Dear Friend: Sorry about Truth — I didn't even know it was sick. Thanks for writing.
When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped,

Street Work Contract

KIMBERLY — A low bid of $61,064, submitted by Fox Valley Construction for resurfacing of Ann Street, Maes Avenue and Clark Street, was accepted by the village Board Monday. Board members voted to waive the special assessment procedure calling for a public hearing on proposed installation of sewer and water on Clark Street to a new shopping complex when property owners, Kim Way Stores Inc. and Kimberly Clark Corp. waived their right to a public hearing and agreed to pay any assessment which improvement would be levied. Request Waiver The two firms requested early spring work, making it possible for the streets to be facilitated construction on the shopping complex and to permit sewer and water installation before street improvement work was started. An amendment to village ordinances was approved making it illegal to store junked automobiles or other motor vehicles on property within the community unless a permit is secured from the village board. Action was taken after trustees received complaints about junked or unused autos spoiling the appearance of residential neighborhoods. A fine for violation of the ordinance was set at $10 minimum and $50 maximum with each day of violation classes as a separate offense. Approval was given to the purchase of trees for $750 to complete planting programs on N. Roger Street, in the Kuborn plat and for replacement purposes. Trees are to be purchased from McKay Nursery.

Hortonville Woman Denies Noisy Charge

A rural Hortonville woman Tuesday afternoon pleaded innocent of disorderly conduct after her landlord charged her with "repeatedly stamping or hanging on the floor" of her apartment. Shirley Sasse, 27, was arrested March 6 after a complaint was filed by her landlord, Frank Rutledge, route 2, Hortonville. The woman resides in an apartment located directly above the residence of Rutledge. County Judge Gustave J Keller set the woman's trial for Friday and levied a $100 bond.

Laird Wants Wolf Protected In Menominee County

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
WASHINGTON D.C. — A bill designating that portion of the Wolf River which flows through Menominee County as a National Scenic River has been introduced by 7th Dist Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R., Marshfield. To protect the most valuable tract of land in Menominee County, Laird wrote provisions into the measure which would authorize the Secretary of the Interior to negotiate a lease with Menominee Enterprises, Inc. for up to 400 feet on both sides of the river. "This lease arrangement would extend over five or ten years during the transition period through which the Menominee are going after termination of federal supervision," Laird explained. "Sale of this land should be postponed at least until there is assurance that Menominee County will be able to stand on its own feet after it gets through this transition period." Currently, land along the Wolf River in Menominee County is protected through a lease arrangement with the state, the congressman pointed out. Also included in the Laird bill are provisions for inclusion at a later date of other portions of the Wolf from the Menominee County line to Pike Lake in land along the Wolf in Langlade County, according to a recent announcement.

the top player in the country. a condition of the National Football League-American Football League merger. The Vikings are not limited to taking a quarterback, but may take any player.

3 The Giants' second round choice this year.

4. A player to be named later, whose caliber and position were not specified in the deal. If the two clubs cannot agree on a player, the Vikings get their option of the Giants' No. 3 pick in 1968 or New York's No. 2 pick in 1969.

Can't Have Both

Minnesota cannot exercise both the Giants' No. 1 pick and the bonus selection in the same year.

Finks indicated Tuesday the Vikings may use New York's No. 1 choice next week, and save the bonus pick for next year. This is because the Giants selection this year will be the No. 2 pick, and next year it could be lower if the Giants improve their record.

Baltimore has the No. 1 pick this year obtained from New Orleans in the Gary Cuozzo trade — unless the Vikings exercise the bonus option.

Finks and chief scout Jerry Reichow have said the Vikings' main needs are for a running back and a tight end.

This led to speculation that Clinton Jones, Michigan State halfback, could be Minnesota's first pick — if the Vikings exercise the bonus or if the Colts don't take him. Or it could be Spartan end Gene Washington.

Finks and Reichow were non-committal on the Viking draft plans, saying no decisions would be made until a new coach is consulted.

However, Finks did say that the Vikings feel they have "two outstanding quarterback prospects" in Ron Vanderkelen and Bob Berry to replace Tarkenton.

Vanderkelen, one-time Wisconsin star and Rose Bowl hero, has spent four years as Tarkenton's understudy. Berry, former Oregon passing whiz, is a two-year veteran reserve who Van Brocklin held in high esteem. The Vikings also have former Minnesota star John Hankinson, who spent 1966 with the club's Des Moines farm team.

One other conference record was set by a Lawrence swimmer last weekend as sophomore Toc Mitchell swam the 500-yard freestyle in 5 minutes 30.7 seconds. ## West Suffers Broken Nose In Victory

It was old hat to Jerry West — a 30-plus performance and a broken nose.

The star backcourt man of the Los Angeles Lakers scored 33 points Tuesday night in leading the Lakers past the New York Knickerbockers 131-119, and broke his nose in the process.

Plus 30-point performances are commonplace for West, and broken noses aren't too unusual either. The latter has occurred six times.

In the only other National Basketball Association game, Chicago snapped Boston's winning streak at nine games by downing the Celtics 117-114 in Chicago.

"I'm sure it's broken," said West who was injured when he collided with New York's Willis Reed in the third quarter.

But West who returned to action in the fourth period, said he was sure he would be able to play tonight against St. Louis in Los Angeles.

The winner of that game will take over undisputed second place in the Western Division. The second-place club will play either Chicago or Detroit in the first round of the playoff instead of division winning San Francisco.

Chicago's victory moved the Bulls a half-game ahead of Detroit in the battle for the fourth and last playoff spot.

Giants Find Answer to Namath in Tarkenton

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants have come up with their answer to the rival Jets' Joe Namath — scrambling, colorful Fran Tarkenton, late of the Minnesota Vikings.

"We had to have a personality," a spokesman for the 42-year-old National Football League club, said today. "It's important that we start winning again. It's more important that we win back the fans who have been going to the other league."

"In Tarkenton, we have that deal, they gave up their top two draft choices for 1967, their first pick for 1968 and a player to be mutually agreed upon at a later date."

Allie Sherman, the Giants' coach, said it was worth it. "This is the first and best step we could take in our bid to come back," said Sherman, who's team won only one game in 1966 and finished in the Eastern Division cellar. "Tarkenton is a fine pro quarterback whose ability, leadership and experience will be a great asset to our young team."

A Run for Hurrah
Tarkenton, a mild-mannered, pleasant young man, may not match Namath's lineage in the gossip columns, but he should give the exciting ex-Alabama ace a run for the hurrahs on the playing field.

A six-year NFL veteran, Tarkenton has gained acclaim as a scrambling quarterback. Unlike most of the protected passers, who operate from a pocket, he is apt to break away at any moment and pick his way through tacklers like a nimble-footed halfback.

At Minnesota, he averaged 53.9 per cent on his completions, throwing for 113 touchdowns, and he was always dangerous on the ground. He rolled up 1,803 yards rushing, averaged 6.3 yards a carry and scored 15 touchdowns.

Sherman insisted that he had no plans of changing Tarkenton's method of operation. The new Giant signal-caller, who plans to continue to make his home in Atlanta, said he was happy to be in New York but denied reports that his break with the Vikings — he asked last month to be traded — was due to a personality clash with the former Viking coach, Norman Van Brocklin.

"Van Brocklin is a tremendous coach," he said. "I am indebted to him. He taught me a lot. I wanted to leave Minneapolis for personal reasons."

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — "It surprised me because I'd Steve Spurrier, 1966 Heisman winner, said Tuesday and he had indicated last fall he might be surprised that the would probably draft me." ## Bring the Boys Home

There have been suggestions, most notably from Senator Mike Mansfield, that American troop commitments in Europe be carefully reviewed with a look toward reducing them. It appears now that there are serious studies going on concerning possible withdrawals. And the economic and political ramifications may bring a head-on crash.

There are several reasons why some United States authorities would like to begin bringing American troops home or at least moving them out of Europe. Obviously one is the ever-growing need, especially for experienced troops, in Vietnam. Reportedly the Department of Defense supports in general a withdrawal of an American division by the middle of next year in what would be termed — and what probably would be — a “redeployment.”

There are economic reasons as far as the United States is concerned. A major cause of the continued unfavorable balance of payments is the large number of American military forces and dependents in foreign countries. Bringing home a few thousand would help. But West Germany has also announced that it is unable any longer to commit itself to offset payments.

Offset payments were authorized earlier by the Bonn government to help make up to the U.S. for the dollar costs of stationing American troops in West Germany. In exchange Germany has been making extensive arms purchases in the United States. But last fall former Chancellor Erhard's trip to Washington was to try to persuade President Johnson to give more time on the payments or purchases then due. He failed and subsequently lost his political leadership.

But Secretary Rusk and State Department officials reportedly are opposed to the proposed troop withdrawals. They naturally look at the matter from the political viewpoint and fear that removing troops would further the downfall of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. In all probability they also are concerned that European disapproval of the Vietnamese war would once again be highlighted.

News Coverage of the Speck Trial

The Illinois Supreme Court has ordered the judge in charge of the Speck murder trial at Peoria to relax some of the restrictions on news coverage of the trial which he originally imposed. The Chicago Tribune appealed directly to the state's highest court when Judge Herbert Paschen outlined the procedures under which the trial would be conducted.

The restrictions to which the Tribune objected most vehemently concerned reporting the questioning of prospective jurors in open court. The judge has forbidden reporters to report the questions and answers used in this examination, and he had forbidden the purchase of trial transcripts until after the trial testimony began. Both of these restrictions were removed at the order of the supreme court.

Newsmen covering the trial are still prevented, however, from disclosing the names of prospective jurors until after they have been excused or sworn or sequestered. The supreme court did not rule on this restriction. But there is a good question whether such a rule really serves the public

Topless Go-Go for Saigon

Prospects in Vietnam are looking up in more ways than one. Not only do we have more troops committed now than during the Korean War, and those troops are being utilized in massive ground operations to trap and eliminate the Viet Cong. But they are getting the kind of moral support from folks back home which is a basic ingredient to getting the job done.

Take the contribution of one Richard Bast of Washington, for instance. Mr. Bast is going to “bring America to the boys overseas” by opening a topless go-go discotheque in Saigon.

Explains Mr. Bast: “The topless idea originally came from the military itself. An army colonel friend pointed out that servicemen are shipped from San Francisco and are used to topless girls. Then they go Clearly the United States cannot forever keep troops stationed in a dozen places in the world to keep the peace. Since Western Europe is once again economically prosperous, it would appear that gradually troops could be removed. Of course there is always the danger of a resurgence of active enmity between East and West. The threat of a sudden troop movement to seize an area is always possible. But it would appear to be highly unlikely at this stage in history if only because of the presence of nuclear weapons. Europe is not the same as the unstable nations of Southeastern Asia and it no longer has the shaky borders of the Middle East. Certainly the Russian leaders know full well that any attack from the Communist countries, even with conventional weapons, upon any part of Western Europe would almost certainly mean a full scale nuclear war.

There had been hope in the State Department apparently that American withdrawals would not be necessary until even larger jet transports would permit American forces to return to Europe in a great hurry. These things are all a matter of degree. The highly successful mass operation three years ago demonstrated how fast a whole division could be moved to Europe.

Whether or not the American forces are “deployed,” there is no question about those of Great Britain. The West Germans have refused, for economic reasons, to make any more offset payments to England and that nation, because of its serious financial problems, has no alternative but to bring the troops home.

Such measures by both England and the United States are being considered, however, only because of the growing feeling that the once massive threat of a Communist military take-over of Europe has disappeared. We must not be lulled into overconfidence and complacency. But neither can we forever maintain stances and military attitudes of more than a decade ago which may be considerably out of date.

interest. There could be an instance where neither the prosecuting nor defense attorney knows all about a juror's background, but publication of the name in the newspaper might reveal that he was a distant relative of the defendant, or that some other reason existed for disqualification.

Judge Paschen must be given credit for being sincere in following out the dictates of the U.S. Supreme Court in the Sheppard case as to the type of atmosphere in which criminal trials should be conducted. But he has gone far beyond the scope of those recommendations. A prohibition against newspapers making pencilled sketches of principal figure in the trial, for instance, comes perilously close to forbidding reporters to take pencilled notes.

The Chicago Tribune performed a service for the press and for the public which it serves by protesting Judge Paschen's restrictions to the supreme court. Other newspapers will probably have to take similar action in other cases if judges impose unreasonable restrictions on the right of the press to cover criminal trials.

to Vietnam and find nothing like home. This can be a morale problem. We want our girls to contribute to the war effort.”

Bast's firm is selecting 10 to 25 girls to perform in the Saigon club. They must be “American girls of high caliber.” They will be given lie detector tests, he explained. “We'd be out of business if we shipped some Communists over there. These are going to be nice, wholesome American girls.” They must also be single and willing to sign a six month contract stipulating they will not marry. They will go topless on stage, but will be covered when they mix with the patrons. And they will visit the wounded in the hospitals during off-duty hours.

With these standards Bast's only problem may be finding enough volunteers.

Alligator Poachers Keep Wardens Busy In South Florida

MIAMI (AP) — South Florida game wardens say alligator poachers are their biggest problem.

The alligators are protected by law but their hides can fetch up to $6 a foot. Some poachers make up to $500 a night.

Wardens say the 'gator hunters have two-way radios to warn each other when officers approach. They use airplanes to spot concentrations of alligators by day, then visit promising locations under cover of night.

Wardens in the Everglades area spend at least a third of their time trying to protect the alligators.

“We have to spend much time slapping mosquitoes at night out in the 'glades trying to catch these fellows before they kill off every 'gator in America,” says Game and Fish Commission area supervisor Tom Shirley.

the Soviet intelligence service.

In her passport application (July 11, 1961) she denied that she was or ever had been a member of the Komsomol, the Communist youth organization, on any other Communist organization.

Marina Prusakova was, in fact, a member of the Komsomol. Had this been known to the State Department after her denial, she was subject to admission refusal on the United States on the ground of having willfully misrepresented a material fact.

MET AT DANCE

Her passport application states that she was born at Severodvin (formerly Molotovsk) but her family moved to Leningrad when she was 11. She attended the 374th Women's School there and her membership in the Komsomol began there. Then Marina moved to Minsk.

She was introduced to Oswald at a dance at Minsk's Palace of Culture on March 17, 1961. He was immediately given a certificate to marry her, and also the special consent required for an alien to marry a citizen, and they did marry on April 30. The reception was at her MVD uncle's apartment, one of the best in the city.

Oswald's Russian visa (No. 403339) had expired. The MVD substituted, instead, U.S.S.R. Identity Document No. 311479. This gave him the run of the Soviet Union.

Oswald picked up his Soviet exit visa in Moscow on May 22. He had an interview that day with MVD officials there.

The first our Moscow Embassy ever heard of Marina Oswald was on May 25. Oswald wrote a letter, mailed in Minsk May 15, stating he had married a Russian who would want to accompany him to America. Here in Washington Oswald's own passport was

Compensation for Innocent Victims of Crime Gets Support

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A sudden emergence of interest in public compensation for the innocent victims of crime indicates that what was once a far-out conception may get some serious consideration from Wisconsin lawmakers.

Wyngaard

At least one bill proposing such a plan as a part of the obligation of government as the protector of the social order has already appeared in the Legislature. Public and editorial discussion of the idea is more frequent. Lawyers are reviewing it in their professional dialogues. Perhaps most important, the most distinguished jurist in the state, the head of the State Supreme Court, has endorsed the principle of indemnities to crime victims in a voluntary public statement.

Chief Justice Currie, like other judges in the past, perhaps has found it difficult to find the things to say that will attract the kind of bipartisan and serious attention of the electorate he desires in his candidacy for re-election next month. Allowing for that motivation, the judge's unqualified endorsement of the crime compensation idea ranks as one of the most significant of such a m p a i g n pronouncements by a campaigning judicial candidate in along time.

ARGUMENT FOR ENACTMENT

Public responsibility for the welfare of the individual in the face of disabilities and misfortunes beyond his control are securely fixed in the fabric of Wisconsin law, tradition and public institutions. The hungry, the sick, the crippled, the young, the old — these are regarded as worthy of public succor without question in generations-old statutory service. For more than three decades the state has provided indemnities for the jobless — an idea that was proved and originated in this country in a Wisconsin law. The workman in a factory who loses the tip of a finger, or fractures an elbow, not to mention that workman who may lose his life in an industrial accident, has a claim for indemnity for himself and his family under a program so long established that only the elderly can remember when such benefits were not assured.

As Justice Currie aptly puts it, the adoption of the concept of public responsibility for crime losses would “fill a void in our over-all commitment to protect the citizen from crime and violence.”

In American terms, indemnity for crime losses of individuals is a new and perhaps disturbing concept. Yet as the scholarly judge points out, it is not new in the civilized experience. The idea was accepted in Anglo-Saxon England and in ancient Babylon. New Zealand and England have accepted the idea. Recently New York and California have written such laws, although on a modest and limited basis.

COST COULD BE HIGH

It may be said that the victim of a criminal assault, or his dependents, have recourse in the form of lawsuits in the regular way. Yet the unfortunate fact is that most perpetrators if crime are judgment proof, as the high rate of indigency declarations in the criminal courts now shows.

The Wisconsin State Crime Laboratory, asked for an appraisal of the bill now before the Legislature that would provide for maximum awards of $15,000 for the dependents of murder and manslaughter victims, says that the probable cost of such indemnities would reach a million and a half dollars a year.

Obviously, the estimate is a mere guess, based on assumptions of claims according to the recent crime rate within the state. Such a sum may be greeted with reserve in the Legislature, preoccupied as it is with normal budgeting troubles. Yet it is a bagatelle when measured against the cost of incarcerating prisoners or operating the law enforcement system, or a hundred other disbursements made on account of crime and criminals.

Strictly Personal

Here's the Confession Of Perpetual Hummer

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

An old Irish proverb says that a person who goes around humming is doing it to ease a guilty conscience. If that is true, then I have the guiltiest conscience since Lady Macbeth learned that hell is murky.

Harris

We unconscious hummers are a strange breed. We wake up in the mornings feeling terrible — and begin humming a merry little ditty. Sometimes it is a hideous little ditty, one we hate and wish we could forget. But there it is, and we are stuck with it.

The power of the unconscious is nowhere more clearly revealed than in such trivial examples. We hummers hum when we don't want to, when we are unaware we are doing so, and often we hum tunes we haven't heard for 20 years, and despised when we heard them.

There is no apparent relationship between the way you feel and what you hum. There can be murder in my head and terror in my heart, and there I am in the office washroom, humming “Three Little Fishes,” or “I Want to Go Back to My Little Grass Shack.” Where did those tunes come from, and why are they here, to haunt and torture me?

Sometimes I whistle instead of humming. “You must feel good,” says a colleague passing me in the hall. How can I explain that I feel like the inside of a railroad engineer's glove?

We know that Mozart composed many of his loveliest and gayest melodies when he was in the slough of despond; so perhaps these tunes are a way of warding off anxiety, of thrusting away the secrete of despair. But, then, why don't I hum some of the beautiful passages I know, instead of dredging up such abominations as “Rose Marie” or “Pale Hands I Love”?

How does a certain song become a kind of fixation, a sort of musical doppelganger that follows you around all day, mocking you and refusing to dislodge itself from your mind? Judgment and choice, love and hate, have nothing to do with such matters — I have caught myself shaving and humming the song I most detested in the last 20 years.

And for a man with a high, severe taste in music — Beethoven's Quartet No. 15 is my idea of a score to relax by — it is double punishment to be victimized by “How Come You Do Me Like You Do, Do, Do?” or “I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate.” I suppose it's that Freud would call “the return of the repressed” — but there I am humming or whistling these hideous tunes, while people stare at me with a mixture of curiosity and revulsion, and I am feeling like the hand of death.

I could never understand the people who talk to themselves as they walk along their solitary way, but now I am beginning to. They are reformed hummers and whistlers who are trying to shake the habit by saying to themselves, over and over, “No music, maestro, please!”

Court Case Could Solve 'Rate' Battle

Revolving Credit Arrangements Discussed by Attorney General

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

case in the courts, but the legislature also has the opportunity to resolve it in a pending bill, Atty. Gen. Bronson C. LaFollette told leaders of the Legislature Tuesday.

His statement came when he was asked to comment in a legislative finance committee hearing on his department budget, on the claim of the state department of banking that Wisconsin consumers are now being mulcted of hundreds of thousands of dollars in excessive interest charges on their department store accounts.

The latter complaint came earlier, in testimony before the committee, by William Nuesse, state commissioner of banking, who has been pressing for a resolution of the controversy that has continued for years. The banking department's consumer credit officials are convinced that the common rate of 1.5 per cent per month on such department store accounts is improper under Wisconsin law.

13 Per Cent
The division insists that under the Wisconsin law which limits interest to 1 per cent a month, or 12 per cent a year, the department store charges aggregating 18 per cent yearly are usurious and therefore prohibited.

But LaFollette said the case is not entirely clear. "Normally the laws governing 'interest' relate to the lending of money or the forbearance of a debt, he noted. There are also questions about the definition of penalties and service charges as 'interest,' he explained, and in a merchant who is imposing such charges must be in court to make a contest in will.

The banking department has found that merchants are unwilling to cooperate to provide such a test and prefer to waive their charges, instead, when they are challenged, the attorney general said.

Divided Opinion
LaFollette also said that the extensive studies of the problem in his office had concluded that expert opinion in the country is fairly evenly divided on the propriety of revolving credit charges and the applicability of usury laws.

Moreover, there appears to be than ordinary charges, he said, pointing to the experience of the state of Missouri, where the courts outlawed such interest collections, and the legislature with the consent of the people in a referendum promptly amended the constitution to reinstate the system.

LaFollette told the legislative committee that he has written a proposed "truth in lending" act which has been presented to the Legislature in the form of a bill.

While its principal object is to let the debtor know precisely what his interest and other charges are in time payment contracts, it will also set out clearly the regulation of the revolving credit plans, he said.

Order Exam For McBrair

WATOMA — James D. McBrair, 27, accused slayer of four persons early Sunday morning at a remote Fish Lake cottage, was taken to Central State Hospital in Waupun late this morning for psychiatric examinations.

McBrair appeared at 10:40 a.m. before Waushara County Judge Boyde Clark. The accused slayer's attorney, Jon Wilcox, requested that a preliminary hearing be waived and that his client be bound over to Circuit Court.

Judge Clark and Dist. Atty. Howard Dutcher agreed and the judge stepped down from the bench. Circuit Judge R. H. Gollmer, Baraboo, then took the bench and ordered that McBrair be sent to Central State Hospital.

"There is a basis here that a mental illness could exist," Judge Gollmer said. "and he is not entirely clear."

No pleas were entered by McBrair's attorney and no bail was set. All proceedings in the case will be stayed until McBrair returns from Central State Hospital. His confinement there is not to exceed 60 days.

Man, Ex-Wife Killed

Warning of Death Finishes Its Job

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — First came the doom doll, a pinpricked mannequin.

It arrived in a package which police opened because George Ash's estranged wife thought it might be a bomb.

Next the 42-year-old Ash himself came back from California — to find his former wife, 30-year-old Roselyn, divorced and remarried.

Escambia County officers said Ash rented a car at Mobile, Ala., drove here Tuesday and fired five pistol shots into the lock of his ex-wife's trailer home. She returned the fire with aolley through the door. Ash ducked, reloaded and charged again. Deputies found the woman's body in a bathtub with four bullet wounds in the head and one in the shoulder. Her pistol was found beneath her.

Ash lay on the parlor floor with two bullets in his chest. Officers said he feebly pointed his gun at them but they stepped on his gun hand and found the weapon empty. Ash was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Medical Examiner Aldrich Northrup said Ash killed both his ex-wife and himself.

Roselyn's second husband, Nick Perling, was at work when the couple exchanged a total of 23 shots.

Officers recalled the grotesque doll that turned out to be rot death, but a portent, four months ago.

It was a nondescript foot-long child's doll — but its forehead, arms and legs had been marked and a straight pin was thrust through the body area corresponding to the location of the human heart.

Officers asked Ash about the doll on a brief trip he made here later and said he told them he bought it in San Diego, California, where he was living, and had it "hexed" in Mexico before sending it to his estranged wife.

Hoffa to be Given No Special Rights

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — James Hoffa will be just another inmate behind the walls of the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., according to Warden Jacob J. Parker.

Wearing a two-piece blue denim suit and black low-cut shoes, Hoffa started his first full day in this federal penitentiary today.

Parker said he had no plans to meet with Hoffa for the first few days and that, like the 1,700 other inmates, Hoffa will work to earn his spending money. He will get no special mail or visiting privileges, said Parker.

Federal marshals brought Hoffa here Tuesday to start an eight-year term for jury tampering. Eventually said Parker, he'll settle into a routine, but for the first month, he'll be going through an indoctrination of sorts.

Parkers said Hoffa's first stop was the supply room, where he turned in his business suit for three two-piece blue denim uniforms. Parker added that the uniforms would later be "tailored to meet his needs."

Negro Leaders Doubt Chances

James Meredith Decides to Run Against Powell in Special Election

NEW YORK (AP) — Negro leaders in Harlem and around the country reacted coolly today to James H. Meredith's plans to run as the Republicans' choice against Democrat Adam Clayton Powell in a special congressional election April 11.

They gave him little chance of winning, and some charged he was being used.

Meredith, in agreeing to oppose Powell Tuesday after being recommended by Republican leaders, said he was aware that in running he might lay himself open to "the fear and the scorn from fellow Negroes." He said that Powell, excluded from the House last week, had lost his influence and the people deserve more than what they're getting.

Meredith's name was suggested by an unidentified Harlem Republican leader last week.

Tuesday he was recommended by members of the Republican Executive Committee, from the 18th District. His nomination is expected to be made at a meeting of the rank-and-file Harlem Republican County committeemen within a week.

"Wait and See"
Powell, who has won the 18th District of Harlem in 12 consecutive elections by wide margins, had little comment when he learned of the announcement.

"We'll wait and see," he said from his retreat in Bimini, the Bahamas. Powell is taking court action in efforts to regain his seat, but plans to run again should litigation fail to settle the matter by April 11.

Percy Sutton, Manhattan borough president whose home political district is in Harlem, said he would support Powell. Sutton, a Democrat like most Harlem leaders, said in a statement.

"While Mr. Meredith has certainly earned his credentials as a civil rights hero, I think the Harlem community feel Mr. Meredith is an outsider, selected by the Republicans and outsiders to be imposed on the Harlem community."

"Not Indigenous"
The Rev. Roy Nichols, pastor of the Salem Methodist church, said Meredith "is unprepared and not indigenous to the Harlem community."

"The man has not even waited to see whether or not Mr. Powell is going to retain his seat by court order," added the Rev. Mr. Nichols. "It seems to me he is jumping the gun before the race starts. I don't think Meredith will get a second look from Harlem, not even a first look."

Wilbert Kirby, speaking for why Dallas rates third in the nation's fashion markets. Wisconsin coats were heavy in Dallas last week, the 30 degrees at home being topped by 85 here. Great for sunning, and bringing home the start of a summer tan! Even at 85, people weren't using their swimming pools. Wisconsinites who take to Winnebago and Michigan at the first 70-degree mark are far more courageous than southerners, who think May 1 is the proper time to begin swimming, regardless of temperature. Sunday, however, the record heat gave way to more reasonable March temperatures, and it was back to the 40s.

No one who visits Dallas wants to get away without a look at Nieman-Marcus. Nor could I. And of course, the

With the addition of Arrowood, the patrol now has a captain and six patrolmen. Arrowood was selected from three candidates who were tested at the Appleton Vocational School. The three finalists were selected from a slate of 10 candidates who applied for the position.

Starts Soon
The new patrolman will be stationed at Marion and will start his new duties within the next two weeks.

Arrowood is married and has two children. For two years prior to accepting the job with the traffic patrol, Arrowood operated a service station in Marion and prior to that time he was the service manager at Marion Motors Co. for 16 years. His past police experience includes four years as assistant police chief at Marion, six years as a part-time patrolman on the Marion police force and eight years as a Waupaca County sheriff's deputy.

CESA Detaches Portion of Stockbridge School District

Southern Sector Assigned to Chilton After Heated Debate

CHILTON — The south end of own resolutions, denied attachment of the Stockbridge district to the Chilton district's east portion to Chilton, as a result of a vote and on its third resolution unanimously voted to leave the balance of the district intact. (CESA) 10 reorganizational committee.

Calumet County representative on the committee, Clarence Stengel, Hilbert, cast the only dissenting vote.

The committee, acting on its 80 residents on the south and east portions of the Stockbridge district. Twelve students were involved in the resolution, 11 in the detached area, eight of which were tuition students.

The committee reactivated the petition in three resolutions, after allowing time for voluntary reorganization between four schools in Calumet County. The reorganization plan was set up by the state after a survey was made.

Plans for mergers between Brillion, Hilbert and Stockbridge failed when Brillion electors turned down the merger. The possibility of Hilbert, Stockbridge and Chilton never materialized and the Stockbridge-Chilton merger was left.

Those speaking for the petition felt Chilton offered better quality education and more for their money. Some had sent their children to Stockbridge but switched to Chilton on a tuition basis believing the school offered more for the college-bound student.

Attorney Explains

Joseph Schiff, attorney for the Stockbridge district, explained that Stockbridge never had a chance to join with Brillion-Hilbert because Brillion voters turned it down. The second proposal didn't materialize because Hilbert wasn't interested, and Stockbridge wasn't interested in merging with Chilton.

He told the committee before the vote that a meeting Saturday night produced an opinion ballot of 170 against merging with Chilton compared with 16 for the merger. Speaking of the two areas involved in the original petition, Schiff said "only parents of 12 students signed the petitions compared to parents of 56 students who did not." Asked to break the figures down for separate resolutions, Schiff said he did not have the figures, but there were 11 students involved in the petition signed by 40 electors. He said detachment of the area would

Amherst Youth Admits Bank Robbery Attempt

David Kealher Pleads Guilty to 3 Other Charges; Order Pre-Sentence Investigation

WAUPACA — The rural Amherst youth captured after a struggle with police on Main Street here Feb. 24 appeared Tuesday before County Judge Wendell McHenry and pleaded guilty of attempted robbery, robbery, car theft and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge McHenry after David E. Kealher, 19, entered the pleas.

Kealher was returned to the county jail where he has been held in lieu of a $15,000 bond since he was arrested.

Kealher was charged with the attempted robbery Feb. 24 of the First National Bank of the Waupaca. He left the bank after a 19-year-old teller refused to give him the $2,000 he demanded. After the attempted robbery of the bank, Kealher went to the Buttes Bell Service Station, 717 Churchill St., where he robbed a 14-year-old attendant of $46 at gunpoint.

Kealher was captured on Main Street by a county traffic patrolman and two sheriff's deputies a short time after the service station robbery.

The youth was AWOL from the Army and stole a car in Stevens Point on the day of the robberies in Waupaca. Portage County authorities consolidated the stolen car charge with the robbery charges.

While being held in jail on the two robbery charges it was learned that Waupaca County had a warrant charging Kealher with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and he was arraigned on that charge two days after his arrest. The latter charge stemmed from a January, 1966, incident when Kealher and a Waupaca youth went to Arizona without the knowledge of the Waupaca youth's parents.

Kealher was represented in court Tuesday by Waupaca attorney Laurie Anderson.

State Pollution Suit Factor in Nichols Incorporation Plan

Hope for Sewage Treatment

NICHOLS — Prodded by an impending $430,000 lawsuit stemming from pollution of the Shioe River, residents of this unincorporated community have taken the first steps toward incorporation and the municipal sewage treatment facilities they hope the move will bring.

While the lawsuit, filed in October, 1956 by the attorney general's office with the Dane County Clerk of Circuit Court is not the only factor leading to the decision to incorporate, it did speed up the process, according to Gerald Lorge, Bear Creek attorney who is serving as legal counsel for the incorporation committee.

The suit seeking the huge penalty was initiated on a complaint by the Department of Resource Development and alleges that the people of the unincorporated community are polluting the river with untreated sewage.

Dumped into River
The community has a sewage collection system of laterals and mains, but does not have a treatment plant. The sewage is piped directly into the river.

An order issued in 1952 by the state committee on water pollution demanded that the Town of Cicero take steps to eliminate the practice before the end of 1953.

There was much correspondence between the town and state, but no action was taken. A representative of the attorney general's office told the Post-Crescent Tuesday.

In 1965 the town was issued another order from the state and when no action was taken, the court suit was initiated.

Has Water System
Nichols, aside from the sewage collection system, also has a central water supply. It is privately owned and residents are billed on monthly rates much like a municipal utility. Plans now are to convert both to municipal utilities if incorporation is effected.

Faced with a decision between forming a sanitary district or an incorporated village, Lorge said the citizens decided on the latter. Incorporation has advanced.

Follow State Trend

County Voters Shun Polls

Outagamie County voters stayed away from the polls in great numbers in Tuesday's Supreme Court primary election. Those who did vote followed the state trend, endorsing George R. Currie, incumbent, and Robert W. Hansen, Milwaukee Circuit Court judge.

Currie, now chief justice, received more Outagamie County votes than the combined total of his opponents, totaling 2,496 while Hansen had 1,360 and Harry Halloway, Whitefish Bay attorney, had 565.

Lack of local contests, combined with Tuesday's cold weather, probably helped keep the vote total down. Most areas had only the Supreme Court ballot on which to vote.

Primary Choice
Appleton voters had a primary choice in the board of education race as did the parts of the towns of Grand Chute and Buchanan in Outagamie County, the Town of

Harrison in Calumet County and a small area in the Town of Menasha which are in the Appleton school district. However, none of the less than a dozen Town of Menasha voters in the Appleton School district cast votes in the school board race. The Town of Grand Chute also had a primary election of its own. Of 21,114 Appleton registered voters, 3,403 cast ballots. Appleton also had an aldermanic primary test in two wards.

The Town of Liberty had the low vote total as nine ballots were cast, seven of them by members of the election board. The tabulation showed Currie with seven votes, Hansen with two and Halloway with nine. The towns of Cicero, Deer Creek and Black Creek reported 12 votes each. Maple Creek 13, Maine 14, and Seymour 15.

Town of Hortonville was the first to report, calling in the results of 17 votes at 5:45 p.m., 45 minutes after the polls closed. Judge Currie received seven votes while the two challengers had three each. Four ballots were defective because voters marked more than one choice.

Towns Divided

In Appleton Judge Currie had 1,761 votes to 1,017 for Judge Hansen and 336 for Halloway. In Seymour Currie and Hansen had 15 each while Halloway had 10.

In the towns of Outagamie County Currie had 333 votes, Hansen 163 and Halloway 135. Halloway carried the Town of Oneida while Hansen led in the towns of Buchanan and Ellington. The seven villages gave Currie 139 votes, Hansen 112 and Halloway 49. Hansen led in Black Creek by a single vote with Currie leading in the other five.

Kaukauna supported Currie, with 186 followed by Hansen with 104 and Halloway 55. New London's Third Ward had 12 for Currie, five for Hansen and none for Halloway.

"cripple the Stockbridge district."

The second resolution to detach the east section of the district was denied by a four-two vote after a forceful talk by Ronald Price, Town of Stockbridge supervisor who accused persons, well over the 150 the committee of "making up your minds before you come here."

He explained that A. W. Gordon, Chilton superintendent, had admitted that there was a much valuation behind each petition in Stockbridge as in Chilton.

Price said he knew Chilton would be agreeable to accepting territory, but he wondered how Chilton felt "about a group that doesn't want to come."

At one point Stockbridge board chairman Ed Daun, who lives in the area involved in the second resolution, jumped to his feet and asked those in favor of leaving the district intact to stand — less than two dozen remained seated.

Chairman Andrew Howard explained the duties of the board and its "thankless job" after one Stockbridge resident broke down during his testimony which accused the committee of being "undemocratic."

Mrs. Shirley Jarvis, board member from Sheboygan, made the motion to detach the south area.

During the hearing the committee checked the curricula of the schools and compared budgets, noting that Stockbridge was a basic school with $11,000, the state aids "just getting along financially" one member said.

Howard explained that if it were not satisfied they could appeal to the state appeal board, or after proper procedures could hold a referendum election.

Read into the record was a letter with a petition signed by 400 residents, asking to keep the school district intact, and a letter from the village board of Stockbridge with the same request.

The 22 town winners were the guests of the county bankers association and heard McDowell, director of the State Department of Agriculture talk on agricultural future.

The award winners were announced by John Nimlos, awards chairman.

County banks sponsoring the awards program are: Embarras State Bank; Dairyman's State Bank, Clintonville; Clintonville National Bank; First State Bank, Iola; Marion State Bank, Manawa; Marion State Bank, First State Bank; New London; New London National Bank; Farmers State Bank, Waupaca; First National Bank, Waupaca; Farmers and Merchants Bank, Weyauwega; and Fremont Branch, Appleton State Bank.

Refereed Next

Once the Department of Resource Development approves the plan the Circuit Court orders a referendum within the area proposed to be incorporated. If the voters favor incorporation, a charter is issued by the Secretary of State.

In the event the resource department director's determination is not favorable, the petitioners may appeal to the Circuit Court of Dane County to gain a reversal and a referendum for incorporation would still be possible.

There are only 333 villages in the state. The most recent incorporations, according to the Secretary of State, are Maribel in Manitowoc County and Egg Harbor in Door County.

Dies While Fixing Auto

Raymond Stoffel, 47, Appleton, Found Dead in Garage

A 47-year-old Appleton man died about noon Tuesday of carbon monoxide poisoning in the closed garage at his home on the city's north side.

The death of Raymond A. Stoffel, 2504 N. Mason St., was listed as apparently accidental, according to Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, and occurred while Stoffel was repairing his car.

Stoffel's wife, Dorothy, discovered the body on the garage floor at approximately 12:30 p.m. after she returned from a visit to the home of her sister, Mrs. Donald Dietzen, 2800 Main Ave., Kaukauna. Appleton police, assisting with the investigation, said the trunk of the car was open and the hood was up.

Tools near the vehicle indicated Stoffel was making mechanical repairs on the auto when he was overcome. Authorities said the garage doors were closed.

Although the car's engine wasn't operating when the body was found, the ignition key was at the "on" position. The fire department rescue squad was called and Stoffel was transported to Appleton Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Stoffel, the father of three boys returned home at 7 a.m. Tuesday after working the night shift at Consolidated Paper Co., where he was employed as a shipping clerk.

Mrs. Stoffel told authorities her husband went to bed about 7:30 a.m. and she left for Kaukauna with the children. When she returned shortly after noon, she noticed the car wasn't in its usual spot in the driveway.

She entered the house but didn't find her husband. Mrs. Stoffel then went into the garage where she found Stoffel on the floor to the left of the automobile.

The woman said she repeatedly had warned her husband against working on the car while the garage doors were closed. Kemps said Stoffel died sometime between 11 a.m. and noon.

The body was released to Valley Funeral Home.

McDowell Speaks At Waupaca County Banker Award Fete

MANAWA — Predictions on population growth and the world's increasing need for more food were explained Tuesday, by Donald McDowell, director of the State Department of Agriculture, at a Farmers Award Day dinner at Cedar Springs Resort.

Special guests at the dinner were the 22 town winners of the 16th annual Waupaca County Bankers Association Farmers Award. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Anderson, Town of Farmington, were named Waupaca County winners.

"In the next 33 years you farmers will see tremendous changes not only in the world food needs but changes in how the food is produced," McDowell said. There are three billion people in the world, and by the year 2000 there will be six billion and the food needs to feed these people will come from only 3 per cent of the world's surface, he added.

Wall Street Watches

McDowell said agriculture is a big interest on Wall Street. "They (the Wall Street investors) keep a close watch on the pulse of agriculture," he said.

By the year 2000 farmers can look forward to producing 200 bushels of corn per acre, wheat that has twice the protein of what it now has and if a cow does not produce 15,000 pounds of milk per year it will be eliminated, he said.

LBJ Finds Dead-Pan Image Fits Him Best

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, going through three phases in his public relations since taking over the White House in 1963, was hit on a cool, middle-ground where he is likely to stay.

He was fiercely driving and ebullient at first, so obviously anxious to be liked he looked awkward; then he became so reticent he almost disappeared from view; now he plays it straight and dead-pan.

This third role has helped him. That's why he will probably maintain it until the end of his presidency, whether it's in 1969 or 1973.

Johnson was a man of lunging energy, an arm-around-the-shoulders and let's-reason-together kind of man, who tried to get things done amicably in his six years as Democratic leader in the Senate.

Politically Ambitious
That he was politically ambitious then, with his eyes on the White House, became plain when he tried for it in 1960.

He didn't say much on the Senate floor in his leadership days there, which was contrary to his nature. In private he talked a torrent. But he did his talking and persuading with the temperamental senators behind the scenes.

He wanted to get along, to be liked. It was one of the best ways to get things done in the Senate where his achievements were later to be the foundation for his bid for the presidency.

In the process he became the best Senate leader in his century, perhaps in American history. For a while after President John F. Kennedy's death, Johnson was rather muted.

But when he got adjusted to his new job, he became his old Senate self, although there was a difference in the two jobs.

Wrong System
The White House job required public appearances and pronouncements and, by way of television, direct relations with the whole country. In that situation there was no place for the arm-around-the-shoulders system.

He was awkward, particularly on television where his gestures, his facial expressions and even his rhetoric looked and sounded like pleas to be liked.

He compounded his problem by appearing impetuous at times, as, for instance, in his repeated appearances on television to explain American involvement in the Dominican Republic revolt. Gradually, his standing in the public opinion polls went down, although the Vietnam war helped do that.

Campaign Liability
Last summer it seemed questionable he could win re-election in 1968. His Democrats badly needed help in the 1966 election campaigns but he made relatively few campaign trips or speeches for them.

There was even this kind of gruesome political talk: If he did campaign for the Democrats, he would be a liability. Just as the campaign heated up he withdrew himself by making a trip to the Far East for about 17 days.

Texas Stay
The country did not relize it at the time but this was the beginning of Johnson's withdrawal into silence. When he retired, although there were still a few days for speeches, he disappeared from view again with the explanation that he needed surgery.

But he wasn't operated upon until eight days after the election, in which the Democrats took a beating. Then, after the hospital stay, Johnson withdrew to Texas and stayed there almost entirely to year's end.

His first return to full view was a televised news conference Dec. 31. He was a changed man.

Gone were the gestures, the facial expressions, the longing look. He performed straight-faced, and has done so ever since.

The first thought in mind in watching the new Johnson is that he has been well-coached by experts in his public appearances. His aides deny it. But the new style has shown results. The criticism has died down.

And he seems far less compelled to mount the barricades against such criticism as he does get.

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The North Carolina General Assembly has been asked to save the sea turtle.

Rep. James G. Exum introduced a bill Tuesday to make it illegal to "take, disturb or destroy any sea turtles or their nests or eggs" during the hatching season from May to September.

Exum said he fears the harmless Atlantic green and loggerhead turtles will become extinct if they aren't given legal protection.

Measure Offers Changes in County Assembly Districts

Senate Bill Would Reapportion Outagamie Assembly Areas

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A major reapportionment of Outagamie County's three state Assembly districts was proposed in a measure introduced Tuesday in the state Senate.

Sen. Raymond Johnson, R-Eau Claire, offered an amendment to a reapportionment bill sponsored by Senate majority leader Jerris Leonard, R-Bay side, suggesting all three of Outagamie districts be reshuffled to create two districts colored oleomargarine in Wisconsin, basically urban in character and a third, basically rural.

Johnson said he made his proposal in light of his continuing interest in creating legislative districts which are of a similar make-up.

Affected by the proposed change are Outagamie County's second and third Assembly districts, represented by William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, and Ervin W. Conradt, R-Shiocton.

Transfer Areas

Transferred from Conradt's district would be almost all of the fundamentally Appleton urban areas now located in his constituency. Transferred from Rogers' district would be much of the rural area in surrounding towns and villages. The urban areas moved from Conradt's district would be shifted to Rogers' district. Rogers would also gain areas from Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton.

Johnson explained his amendment to the Leonard bill as a drive to achieve districts in which a "consensus of opinion" could be easily represented by elected officials. Splitting districts between areas of urban and rural nature makes such agreement impossible on many issues, he maintained.

He said that his own Senate district was affected by this problem on the question of legalizing the sale and use of colored oleomargarine in Wisconsin.

The Leonard bill is aimed at reducing problems caused under the Supreme Court led reapportionment of the state legislature four years ago. Only one bill changing the court-established lines may be passed, and many changes are expected.

Local Problem

The bulk of the Leonard proposal deals with a problem in the city of Glendale near Milwaukee.

Johnson did not explain his special interest in the Outagamie County problems other than that of general reapportionment, but it is thought that he had the assistance of at least two area legislators on the matter.

Conradt, one of the two legislators most affected by the measure, said he expected no special political benefit from the proposal.

He said that such a move would allow both of the most affected districts to be better represented.

Rogers was unavailable for comment.

Changes in the districts, as proposed in the bill, are:

Outagamie-1 (Froehlich) — to contain Appleton city Wards 1 through 6, 8, 12, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19 and 20. This constitutes a loss of Wards 7, 9, 10, 11 and 13. Wards 17 through 19 would be an addition to the district.

Outagamie-2 (Rogers) — to retain the Town of Buchanan, and the Villages of Combined Locks and Kimberly, and the City of Kaukauna. Gained would be Appleton city Wards 7, 9, 10, 11 and 13. Lost would be the towns of Freedom, Kaukauna, Oneida, Osborn, Seymour, Vandenberg, the Village of Little Chute and the City of Seymour.

Outagamie-3 (Conradt) — retains Appleton city Ward 16. Loses city Wards 15, 17, 18 and 19. Gains all areas lost to Outagamie-2 (Rogers), and retains all other areas, including cities, villages and towns in Outagamie County and not specified as a portion of one of the first two Outagamie County Assembly districts.

CHILTON — Leo C. Walker, 48, 442 Breed St., head of an electrical contracting firm, died at 4:10 p.m. Tuesday at Calumet Memorial Hospital after suffering an apparent heart attack at his shop.

Walker collapsed while working and was taken to the hospital by the hospital ambulance.

Walker has headed Walker Electric here since 1953. He was a member of the American Legion Post and Kiwanis Club.

He was born April 14, 1918, at Sherwood, N.D., and served in World War II before coming to Chilton.

Survivors include the widow, four daughters, one son, his parents, and a sister.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Ebenezer United Church of Christ with burial in the Hillside Cemetery. Friends may call at the Pfeiffer Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Thursday until 10:45 a.m. Friday and then at the church until time of services.

Sparing the Rod Is Safe, Doctor Says

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Beating a child on the seat of his pants can lead to later brain damage, a West German doctor says.

Dr. Felicitas Hammer, in a study on the effects of corporal punishment, said thrashings on the backside can dislodge tiny fatty particles which may subsequently cause blood to clot in the brain.

A child may then suffer from headaches, giddiness, forgetfulness and loss of concentration, she said.

Proposal to Lock Cars Draws Strong Support

State Senate Highways Committee Hears From Government, Industry on Lorge Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A bill requiring all unattended parked automobiles to be locked won strong support Tuesday in a state Senate committee hearing.

The bill, authored by Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, would require that all cars parked anywhere in the state, with the exception of in attended parking lots, be locked by means of door locks or steering or ignition locks.

It was heard by the Senate highways committee, which took no action on the bill after hearing favorable testimony from representatives of automobile user and trade associations, local units of government and the state Motor Vehicle Department.

Larry Teich, Milwaukee, representing the Wisconsin branch of the American Automobile Association, supported the measure and suggested that the section providing for exemptions for attended parking lots be removed from the bill. The presence of attending in a parking lot does not stop car thefts, he said.

He pointed out that presently municipalities have the right to enact such an ordinance, and that the bill would make mandatory a state law enforcing such requirements throughout Wisconsin.

Car Thefts Up

Car thefts are becoming an increasing problem, he said, and some state action must be taken to aid in the combatting of the crime. He pointed out that 42 per cent of all car thefts occur because keys are left in unattended vehicles.

In Milwaukee County in 1955, he said, there were 4,100 car thefts. Of those stolen vehicles, 94 per cent were recovered, but almost all were in a state of disrepair through dismantling or damaged, he said.

He agreed with committee members that some provision must be found to allow the use of trucks such as regular delivery vehicles and mail trucks, which operate on a start-and-stop basis.

Exempt Sale Lots

Lois Milan, representing the Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association, asked that the committee exempt auto sales lots from coverage in the bill, saying that it would be difficult to operate a car lot if all cars had to be locked at all times.

Milan suggested that a simple non-key lock be required on the throttle or steering apparatus of certain delivery vehicles such as milk and mail trucks.

"But all these things cost money," he said. "I don't mind telling you that all the safety features thus far required by federal legislation on the 1959 cars will cost between $100 and $200 more. If we get pollution control device requirements and all sorts of other requirements, I can't tell you how much cars will cost."
